

NIXON AND HICKEL 'MAKE PEACE'

THREE AVENUES EXPLORED . . .

International Monetary Reform Ideas Discussed

Washington (AP) — Finance ministers of the world's major non-Communist industrial powers agreed Sunday on three avenues of attack to seek solution of the international monetary disorders before the end of the year.

Conferring on the eve of the week-long annual meeting of the 118-nation International Monetary Fund, the so-called Group of Ten finance ministers in motion also a longer-range exploration of "ways and means of reforming international monetary arrangements."

A preliminary recommendation on possible approaches to the latter effort — which could lead to dethronement of the dollar as the kingpin of world currencies — is expected at the next meeting of the group in late October or November.

Immediate Issues

The ministers accepted, in a two-hour meeting Sunday, a report from their deputies identifying these three "more immediate issues":

First, "the magnitude and method of a realignment of currencies" to replace the table of fixed-exchange value which were junked Aug. 15 when President Nixon ended the free exchange of dollars into gold at $35 an ounce.

Second, the "temporary adoption of somewhat wider margins around par". This would permit greater leeway for day-to-day fluctuations of the newly fixed currency values and thus, it is hoped, discourage currency speculation.

Third, abolition of the 10% surcharge imposed by Nixon on all dutiable imports into the United States, and other newly adopted measures intended to help correct the huge American balance-of-payments deficit.

Nixon has called the surcharge temporary but made it clear that it will not be removed until other countries raise the value of their currencies and thus, in effect, devalue the dollar sufficiently to bring about a $13-billion swing in the American balance of payments, from deficit into surplus.

The communique issued by the Group of Ten said that the deputies have been instructed to explore these issues as soon as possible. A deputies' meeting is expected, for the making of a preliminary report, around the middle of October in Paris.

The urgency of the problem was emphasized by the Canadian finance minister, Edgar Benson. There are dangers, he said, in continuance of the surcharge and the disorganized currency system.

Trade War Feared

"I think that if this is spread into a longer period of time you will undoubtedly see some sort of trade war emerge, a war in which people would build up artificial barriers, one country against the other, and indeed they might intervene to try to affect the values of their currencies."

"I think if this happens then we are right back in the position that existed in the 1930s and it can lead to a restriction of world trade which can do great damage, not only to all other countries in the world but to the United States as well."

Benson gave his views on the NBC television-radio program "Meet the Press."

On the same program the general view of the European and Japanese ministries that the United States should come part way by devaluing the dollar while they revalue their currencies upward was discussed at length.

The problem was likened to the legalization of divorce in Italy by the Italian minister of treasury, Mario Ferrari-Aggradi, who said: "The price of gold for the U.S. is somewhat like the problem of divorce in Italy. I am a Christian Democrat and was against it but it was done because its time had come."

Street Drag Participants Risk Homicide Charges

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Speedsters and dragsters with either automobiles or motorcycles should be aware that one can be held responsible for the death of the other participant even though both parties were equally involved at the time of an accident.

Deputy County Attorney Bernard McGinn said that under the law, even though both parties were guilty of an illegal act at the time of the accident, if one person dies, motor vehicle homicide charges may be filed against the surviving participant in the act.

McGinn explained that in such cases charges may be filed due to the particular definition of motor vehicle homicide which is:

"Whoever shall cause the death of another without malice while engaged in the unlawful operation of a motor vehicle shall be guilty of the crime known as motor vehicle homicide."

A recent example of application of this law in cases of drag racing involved a drag race between two motorcycles which collided with a parked pickup truck.

The collision resulted in the death of one of the operators of a motorcycle and injuries to the other, both of whom were allegedly involved in a drag race at the time of the mishap.

Misdemeanor charges of motor vehicle homicide were filed against the one individual in connection with the death of the other. After pleading nolo contendere to the charge, the defendant was found guilty, placed on probation for one year and ordered not to drive or ride on a motorcycle for one year. He was also fined $250 as part of the terms of probation.

McGinn said that drag racing or engaging in speed contests with motorcycles is on the increase and young people should be aware of the possible severe consequences involved.

Although this is the first such case in Lancaster County involving motorcycles in which one of the participants in a drag race was killed, another Lancaster County example of motor vehicle homicide charges being filed when an individual was killed as a result of a drag race occurred in 1964.

In this particular incident, after stopping for a stop sign, two individuals driving cars allegedly accelerated away from the stop sign at a high rate of speed and one of the vehicles hit a 12-year-old pedestrian crossing the street.

Both drivers were charged with felony offenses in connection with the fatality and each was sentenced to one year in the Nebraska Penal Complex.

At that time, motor vehicle homicide was always a felony, however, the law has been changed and provides for both a misdemeanor and felony offense depending upon the circumstances involved in the accident.

Clean N-Power Plans Revealed

. . . ON TOUR OF NORTHWEST

Anchorage, Alaska (AP) — President Nixon made a measure of peace Sunday with the Cabinet member he ousted, then headed for a precedent-shattering meeting with Emperor Hirohito of Japan — a nation with which he said, "We will never be enemies again."

Nixon came to Anchorage from Richland, Wash., where he announced that the nation's facilities for producing clean, save nuclear power will be doubled.

Warm Welcome

The President and Mrs. Nixon got a warm welcome, despite the chill winds blowing in the nation's northernmost state, from the thousands of people who were at Elmendorf Air Force Base and who lined the nine-mile route through the center of Anchorage to the two-story stone and brown frame mansion that is the residence of Walter F. Hickel.

Hickel, whom Nixon dismissed abruptly as secretary of the interior on Thanksgiving eve last year, was waiting in the driveway with his wife.

It was all smiles and handclaps and arms around one another's backs as if no rift ever had developed. Hickel has just come out with a book that takes a few critical jabs at what happened to him during his Cabinet tenure.

One of those on hand looking on was Rogers C. B. Morton, a former Republican national chairman, whom Nixon tapped to succeed Hickel.

Nixon's drive down Anchorage's main thoroughfare, Fourth Avenue, was a slow-paced affair with a stop here and there to get out of his open car and shake a few hands, chat and pass out souvenir pens.

Deputy Police Chief Carl Higginshaw estimated that 35,000 people turned out in the city and 10,000 more outside it in an area with about 100,000 residents.

Welcome signs predominated but there was widespread distribution of signs protesting the projected Amchitka Island nuclear test, on which Nixon so far has announced no decision.

The motorcade sped up as it passed one clump of about 300 sign carrying demonstrators on the route. Many of the demonstrators surged into the street and tried to follow the presidential car, but were unable to keep up.

A welcome spanning the street hurg from a hotel Hickel owns, and a huge state banner hanging from a skyscraper proclaimed: "A towering welcome, Mr. President and Mrs. Nixon."

Nixon recalled that the last time he was in Alaska was shortly after the 1964 earthquake which inflicted severe damage in the state, including the area where the Hickel house overlooks Cook Inlet.

En route to his appointment with Hirohito — the first meeting between a U.S. president and Japanese emperor — Nixon stopped at the Hanford Atomic Works in Richland, Wash., where he promised to develop nuclear energy "that is clean and does not pollute."

It was the land of Hirohito that first felt the power of an atomic bomb.

At Hanford, the President said a new, fast flux test facility now being built is a major advance in the program to develop peaceful uses of atomic energy.

"This technology," he said in a statement, "will develop into the liquid metal fast breeder reactor, a process that will yield abundant energy that is clean and inexpensive."

Meets Hirohito

Nixon stopped at Hanford on the way from Portland, Ore., where he spent the night, to Anchorage, Alaska, where he will climax a three-day aerial expedition to the Northwest by meeting with Emperor Hirohito. It is the first time a Japanese emperor has visited foreign soil in more than 2,500 years of imperial reign.

The President said private industry's response to plans to develop a prototype fast breeder reactor has been so encouraging that the program will be expanded.

Instead of developing one prototype by 1980, Nixon said, the aim is to work up two, using different approaches in each of them.

They will be built at separate locations, the president said.

Sites Later

While Nixon had promised a significant statement at the Hanford facility, he stopped short of saying the center would be the site of one of the projected reactors. He said sites for the reactor prototypes will be announced later.

He had committed the administration last June, in a partnership with industry, to development of one such reactor.

He urged that it act swiftly.

At an airport reception at Portland, Nixon told a crowd behind a fence, that he was approaching the meeting with Hirohito at a time when there are great opportunities for peace in the world.

'Indispensable'

He said the meeting with the emperor would underline the fact that "these two great peoples are going to be competitors in the world, and we are, but it also underlines another fact: That it is indispensable that we be friends."

Muskie Says Nixon Economics 'Unfair'

By DON WALTON

Omaha — Sen. Edmund Muskie Sunday said President Nixon's new economic program is unfair to most Americans.

"It is not good economics. It is not good social policy and it is not fair," the undeclared presidential candidate told an estimated 450 Douglas County Democrats at a hot and humid door rally at the College of St. Mary.

Nixon's economic proposals will provide about $14 billion benefits for big business and $5 billion for America's workers and consumers, the Democrat said.

Never

I did not support — and I will never support — a program like this," he lashed.

In a brief stopover in Omaha, Muskie attended church services prior to the $10-a-plate Democratic picnic dinner, then immediately following his speech for Chicago.

Muskie said Nixon's economic policy is simply designed to "get us back where we were when he started."

Biggest Mess

It is only proper that the president has described his economic program as the most comprehensive since the 1930's, but that's what it will be to pull us out of the biggest economic mess since the '30s at Depression," he declared.

Nixon has proposed "the best single corporate tax cut in my year in the history of this country," Muskie said.

At the same time, "Social Security tax increases may come out even the very modest ones he promises for middle income families," the senator said.

Police Seek No Men Assault

Lincoln police were seeking men early Monday morning in connection with the alleged assault of a woman at Oak Lake late Sunday night.

Detective Ed Ragatz said a woman was apparently attacked by two men and asked to commit "an unnatural sex act."

According to police reports, a woman was parked at the curb with her boyfriend at the time of the alleged assault. Police said the two suspects sought may have been accompanied by a third man.

Israelis Defiantly Reject U.N. Security Council Demand

Jerusalem (AP) — The Israeli government issued a defiant "no" Sunday to a United Nations Security Council resolution demanding that it halt changes in the status of east Jerusalem.

A communique following a cabinet meeting on the issue said: "Israel will continue to persevere in the development of the city . . ."

The Israelis will not change their policy on Jerusalem nor consent to discussion of the U.N. resolution, it added.

At the request of Jordan, the Security Council took up the Jerusalem issue last week and Saturday issued a demand that Israel desist in changing the status of the eastern half of the city.

East Jerusalem, which includes the old city and some of the holiest shrines of Islam, Judaism and Christianity, was captured from Jordan in the 1967 war. Jordan had taken the eastern half and Israel the western half in the 1948 war.

The text of the Israeli communique: "In the government's opinion, there was no justification for holding the discussion and adopting the resolution on Jerusalem. The government of Israel will not enter into discussion with any political factor on the basis of this resolution."

"Israel's policy with regard to Jerusalem will remain unchanged. Israel will continue to persevere in the development of the city for the benefit of all its inhabitants, in respecting the religious rights of all communities, and in scrupulously safeguarding the holy sites of all faiths and the freedom of access to them. This policy has contributed to the development of fruitful relations among all sections of the population."

Following the 1967 war, Israel annexed east

Jerusalem and declared the city, the ancient capital of the Jews, "reunited."

The Israelis have pushed forward construction, industry and housing projects in the former Jordanian sector. They have declared they will not give up Jerusalem in any peace settlement with the Arabs, nor will they allow the city to be divided again.

The government enjoys the support of most Israelis on this stand.

Construction activity and expropriation of land in the former Arab sector has been regularly condemned by the United Nations and a number of governments, including the United States, Israel's chief ally.

They contend that Israel is illegally changing the status of the city, creating political factions and endangering the chances for a peace settlement. The Israelis argue that the Jordanians illegally divided the city after the termination of the Palestine mandate and for 19 years destroyed Jewish property and barred Jews from entering to pray at their holy sites.

Dutch Elm Disease Takes Heavy Toll

The count of elm trees hit this year by the Dutch elm disease "exceeded all estimates," says City Forester Wayne Willmense.

Willmense said the count shows 1,250 city trees and 569 privately owned trees infected by the disease as compared to 760 city trees and 520 privately owned trees the previous year.

The loss rate increased from 3.6% in 1970 to 6.2% this year, he said.

Factors contributing to the increase, Willmense said, are the elimination of DDT for spraying, the lack of spraying outside the city limits and the decrease in number of property owners spraying their trees.

"Not being able to use DDT has definitely been a factor," he said. He added that the chemical methoxychlor has not been as effective as DDT as a replacement for spraying.

"We had hoped it (methoxychlor) would be effective and more effective than it turned out to be," the city forester said. This year marks the second year for the use of methoxychlor.

Willmense said he has met with university people about the results and for advice and is studying the possibility of changes for the program.

He said approximately 95% of those property owners who have trees to remove have been notified. Property owners have five days to get the trees removed.

Willmense said extensions have been granted where a person notifies his office that a licensed arborist has been hired but who cannot get the trees removed within the time period.

He said the five day limit has been "a little impractical" because of the limited number of qualified arborists and the large number of trees. Willmense said he plans to propose that next year the property owners be allowed 30 days.

Willmense said city crews have removed approximately half of those city trees infected along streets and in the parks.

Thant Faces Decisions

United Nations, N.Y. — United Nations Secretary General U Thant faced a series of difficult decisions in the wake of an Israeli announcement that it would ignore a security council decision calling on it to halt its program of development in the Arab section of Jerusalem and "rescind" what has already been done. The resolutions instructed Thant to verify Israeli compliance by any means he saw fit.

Second Reactor Sought

Walla Walla, Wash. — President Nixon announced that he would seek congressional authorization to construct a second breeder atomic reactor at the cost of several hundred million dollars. The reactors not only produce electricity, but also produce more nuclear fuel than they consume, which proponents say gives the nation an unlimited energy supply. (More on Page 1.)

Controversy Brewing

Denver — A controversy was reported to be brewing over dangers from leftover radioactive sands from uranium processing mills between nine states, the federal government and the Atomic Energy Commission. The controversy centers on an estimated 83 million tons of uranium tailings that contain radioactive elements known to cause cancer.

Soybean Crop Is Seen As Real Money-Maker

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Could soybeans be a partial answer to the financial woes of Nebraska's farmers?

Some people at the University of Nebraska think so and are trying to convert some dryland corn farmers to soybean growers.

"The name Cornhusker seems to be appropriate for the farmer in Nebraska because, if he has any kind of a chance, he will grow corn in preference to any other crop," claims Dr. Don Hanway, chairman of the Department of Agronomy at the University.

Hanway told visitors at the University's field station at Meade that "the varieties of soybeans we grow in Nebraska were all developed somewhere else and have become our fifth most important crop. We ought to develop varieties for Nebraska. Our soil type is different from Illinois and Indiana, where many of the varieties were developed."

While yields have improved in recent years, the increase has not been nearly as great as the advances in the development of hybrid corn and milo, leaving soybeans at a disadvantage. However, the price, computed on a per-bushel basis, has been consistently higher for soybeans.

"Income from soybeans grown on dryland in the eastern part of Nebraska is usually higher than either corn or milo, largely because the cash required to get the crop in the ground is lower," professor A.W. Epp, NU agricultural economist, told farmers attending the soybean field day at Meade.

Epp added that on irrigated land the profit margin favored the corn and milo because farmers don't know the best methods for irrigating the oil seed crop.

While researchers are looking at every aspect of the soybean, seeking ways to make it a more profitable crop, the harvesting practices of farmers seems to offer the most immediate benefits.

"We have found that harvesting practices leave from 3 to as much as 8½ bushels of soybeans in the field, which at current prices could add better than $20 per acre in income," Stan Weeks, agricultural engineer at the university, said.

Weeks has been trying a variety of devices such as a bean bucket, row harvesters designed for milo, floating cutter bars, a hume type reel with pickers on it to gather in the crop, large guards and some farmer-designed equipment.

As to why farmers don't do better with soybeans, a grower at the soybean field day summed it up this way, "They plant the beans after the corn and milo are in, they cultivate them last and if they irrigate them at all it is with left over water and labor after the corn is taken care of and finally they harvest them as though they were running a drag race in the field."

With all that it is a wonder that the crop prospers as well as it does.

Farmers Concerned Over Wage-Price Freeze Effects

Washington (AP) — Farmers are producing so much this year that the agricultural exemption from the Nixon administration's price freeze is making little difference in their pocketbooks.

And while an Associated Press survey shows farmers and their organizations generally support President Nixon's new economic moves, serious reservations exist on how the wage-price freeze may force food processors to react.

Another worry is that the administration's 10% surcharge on imports may invite retaliation from such leading overseas buyers of U.S. agricultural products as Japan and the Common Market nations. The harvest from one of every four U.S. crop acres goes abroad each year.

But farmers like the new policies because they believe it will help control the rising cost of farm production that has offset much of the increase in farm productivity in recent years.

Agricultural products, as long as they walk or are sold in their natural shape, are not affected by the price freeze.

So a steak or roast in a store must be sold at the price covered by the freeze, but the steer it came from, exempted as a raw farm product, is free to soar or drop to rock bottom in price.

No drastic fluctuations have occurred in livestock. Fattened cattle are selling in major markets at prices higher than a year ago. Hogs, although recovering somewhat from the major market slump of last winter, still are behind last year's prices.

But the administration as well may have set a ceiling on prices for farmers who produce poultry, dairy products and grain, including corn and other feed for livestock. Their huge production increase has sent many prices stumbling.

Predicted corn output this year is a record 5.2 billion bushels, up more than one-

So we have a big crop — maybe the biggest one in history if the hot weather right at the end of the growing season didn't chop too much off the yield.

Everybody is running around in panic-stricken circles, yelling out nasty political things at each other right smack dab in the middle of prosperity and plenty.

Therein lies the problem — all that plenty and, for the producer, darn little prosperity. The news from the economists about the future is about as sunny as a forecast of heavy rains during a record flood.

The strike by ship loaders in the Longshoremen Union is hurting exports. The Common Market policy of high import taxes have produced exportable quantities of grain in a normal importing area, and if that wasn't enough even India has for once produced an adequate supply of food, eliminating a ready market for American grain.

Yet there are those who will go to bed hungry in the world, while ironically the producer of the food finds himself economically depressed because he has produced plenty in the world.

There is something terribly wrong in a world where having no fear of starvation is a matter of distress.

Then there is the governor's efforts to have some counties in the state declared a disaster area. It is quite true that eastern Nebraska has some dry spots but much of the crop was made before the dry weather so it is unlikely the federal government will buy the proposal. Many individual farmers have been hurt badly by dry weather and some will lose their farms but the real problem is price.

What we have is a price disaster for farmers and for those who do business with farmers. Nobody knows this better than Exon, who has been watching dwindling sales tax returns from farming areas.

Unless something happens to turn the price upward soon we will have many farmers giving up in the months before spring planting.

groups to demand an end to the tie up of the ports is long overdue.

Farmers who planted blends of corn are having second thoughts as to how good an idea that was. Some ears are ripe and some are green in the same row in the same field, making harvest very difficult and some plants are diseased and must be harvested early.

When corn is difficult to harvest the accident rate goes up due to clogged machines and farmers tend to be snappish at the supper table. The normally friendly wave to the passing motorist can deteriorate to a rather rude gesture under the pressure of an exasperating day in down milo. Cheer up, with good weather you will be finished by Christmas.

You have to want to be a farmer and you have to be fairly rich at the same time. USDA figures released this past week show that you need $200,000 to operate a hog farm raising 150 litters of pigs a year. They claim you could make as much as $23,000 in a good price year and admit that this wasn't the year. Invest that much money at 8% and you have $16,000 already, so you have $7,000 for a seven day a week job in a very good year. This year you have less.

Jacksonville Man Held In Omaha Bank Robbery

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP) — A 30-year-old Jacksonville man has been arrested and charged in connection with a bank robbery in Omaha, Neb., it was announced Sunday.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Earl L. Mascarel was arrested late Saturday night in a Jacksonville night club.

Mascarel was charged with the Sept. 3 armed robbery of the Ames Plaza Bank in Omaha in which $3,000 was taken, the FBI said.

Federal agents said Mascarel was being held in Duval County jail in lieu of $25,000 bond.

fourth from last year. For wheat, it's 1.6 billion bushels, far more than the nation can consume or export this winter.

Total crop production for 1971 is expected to be 11% higher than last year when drought and pests cut deeply into many crops.

Agriculture Department price figures reflect the production leap. Wheat averaged $1.28 a bushel in August, almost 20 cents less than last June. Corn brought $1.19 last month, compared with $1.43 in June.

The concern about how farm processors might react to the price freeze stems from fears they might attempt to beat down prices paid to farmers in order to widen profit margins, according to Harold F. Ohlen-dorf, president of the Arkansas Farm Bureau.

But he says there's no justification for the concern.

The Agriculture Department says it has no knowledge of any processors' move toward pushing down prices.

W. D. Farr of Greeley, Colo., cattle feeder and president of the American Cattlemen's Association, sees some difficulties resulting in part from the freeze.

Part of the reason his cattle are bringing less now than when the freeze began, Farr says, is wholesale prices of beef are frozen according to major cuts. When seasonal buying changes occur, from steaks and hamburger for summer parties to pot roasts for winter dinners, the wholesaler cannot adjust prices accordingly.

To compensate, the wholesale price for the entire beef carcass must be reduced. That hurts the cattleman but has no effect on over-all retail prices, Farr says.

Larger cattle production also has helped reduce animal prices, Farr says, adding there has been no visible deliberate attempt by packers to cut prices they pay producers simply because of the freeze.

Dr. Tom Stubblefield, a University of Arizona farm economist, says dips in the live cattle market are not likely to result in lower costs for consumers.

He says supermarkets are reluctant to cut retail prices during the 90-day freeze, thereby creating a new image of beef costs for consumers, because the prices of steak and hamburger are likely to go up when the freeze ends.

At a White House meeting this month, some farm organization questioned the 10% import surcharge. Tony T. Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, said, "in the long run we believe this surcharge will invite retaliation which will fall heaviest on agriculture."

Agriculture Department sources discount the fears and point out that only about one-fourth of last year's $7.8 billion farm export value would have been subject to the tax.

Fears of foreign trade retaliation aside, farmers are alarmed also over the effect of dock strikes on exports. One estimate is that some $400 million in overseas farm markets has been lost because of a tie-up of West Coast ports.

Should the Gulf and East coast docks shut down later this year further export losses will be in store. Wheat, cotton, feed grain and all other farm exports will be hurt.

Soybeans, the "miracle crop" of recent years, is in wide demand overseas as meal, oil and seed. Exports have helped push up soybean prices steadily. In August they averaged $3.09 per bushel, nearly 50 cents more than a year earlier.

For farmers in the corn belt and the South, soybeans have been a favorite cash crop, and exports are vital. In Missouri, for example, about 60% of the crop is sold to Japan, moving through Gulf ports.

If a special corn head is worth $2,500 then they ought to be able to build a special head for soybeans," Weeks said.

"The newer combines have a very short distance between the knife and the auger which is causing problems. This is fine for wheat but bad for soybeans," he said.

"If a farmer will just slow down it will help and the row harvester certainly helps. Most of the gadgets help some but patience helps most of all," he said.

"We keep talking about agricultural related industry in the state and we have it right here, a surplus of processing capacity, a pretty good price, and a product that is in demand by exporters, we ought to grow more soybeans," said Hanway.

The news from the economists about the future is about as sunny as a forecast of heavy rains during a record flood.

The strike by ship loaders in the Longshoremen Union is hurting exports. The Common Market policy of high import taxes have produced exportable quantities of grain in a normal importing area, and if that wasn't enough even India has for once produced an adequate supply of food, eliminating a ready market for American grain.

Yet there are those who will go to bed hungry in the world, while ironically the producer of the food finds himself economically depressed because he has produced plenty in the world.

There is something terribly wrong in a world where having no fear of starvation is a matter of distress.

Then there is the governor's efforts to have some counties in the state declared a disaster area. It is quite true that eastern Nebraska has some dry spots but much of the crop was made before the dry weather so it is unlikely the federal government will buy the proposal. Many individual farmers have been hurt badly by dry weather and some will lose their farms but the real problem is price.

What we have is a price disaster for farmers and for those who do business with farmers. Nobody knows this better than Exon, who has been watching dwindling sales tax returns from farming areas.

Unless something happens to turn the price upward soon we will have many farmers giving up in the months before spring planting.

$500.00 REWARD

Union Pacific Railroad Co. will pay $500.00 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of person or persons responsible for shooting out light on top of microwave tower located 3 miles Southeast of Lincoln Nebraska on September 19, 1971, or for any damage such as this in the future. PHONE 271-3271, Omaha, Nebr.

DOMINICK COSTELLO

The crop report gathered on October 1 and published nearly two weeks later should be pretty close to the actual harvest figure as it will contain a good deal of harvest data. Early crop reports are sketchy but there is a great variation in them from farmers who are plowing under headless milo and earless corn to 100-plus bushel yields. The average is the key figure and we won't have it until mid-October. It probably will be lower but how much is the vital question.

Exports would normally be stimulated by low grain prices however the existing dock strike on the West Coast and the threat of a strike on the east and gulf port areas are killing the opportunity.

A major factor in the argument is containerization of shipments, which requires less labor and eliminates or greatly reduces pilferage which has become an important cost factor in export-import operations.

A real push from farm groups to demand an end to the tie up of the ports is long overdue.

Farmers who planted blends of corn are having second thoughts as to how good an idea that was. Some ears are ripe and some are green in the same row in the same field, making harvest very difficult and some plants are diseased and must be harvested early.

When corn is difficult to harvest the accident rate goes up due to clogged machines and farmers tend to be snappish at the supper table. The normally friendly wave to the passing motorist can deteriorate to a rather rude gesture under the pressure of an exasperating day in down milo. Cheer up, with good weather you will be finished by Christmas.

You have to want to be a farmer and you have to be fairly rich at the same time. USDA figures released this past week show that you need $200,000 to operate a hog farm raising 150 litters of pigs a year. They claim you could make as much as $23,000 in a good price year and admit that this wasn't the year. Invest that much money at 8% and you have $16,000 already, so you have $7,000 for a seven day a week job in a very good year. This year you have less.

To Serve 200 Farms, Rural Homes . . .

Water District Being Formed

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

A new water district is in the formation process in the central portions of Cass and Otoe Counties, according to Herman Minderlin of Syracuse.

"We are calling it the Bi-County Water District and expect to serve about 200 farms and rural homes," Minderlin said.

The steering committee for the new district includes Arthur Wolph of Nehawka as president, Dane Janssen of Syracuse as vice president, Herman Minderlin of Syracuse as secretary-treasurer. Other members of the committee are Sen. Calvin Carstens of Avoca, Norman Antes of Syracuse, James Jensen of Avoca, Glenn Stubbendick of Avoca and Kenneth Wessel of Avoca.

"Our critical need at this point is to have people come to us with their needs as we are now formulating plans as to the area to be served and the amount of water that will be required," Minderlin said.

There already are other water districts operating in Otoe County. Otoe County No. 1 is under construction and Otoe County No. 2 is in the formulation state, according to Minderlin.

3 Persons Are Pulled From Lake

Three Lincoln people were fished from Wagon Train Lake, just east of Hickman, Sunday afternoon after spending about three hours in the lake's cold water clinging to their capsize boat before being rescued by the Lincoln Fire Department scuba team.

Jim George, a member of the scuba team, identified the trio of fishermen as Earl Clapper, 39, Robert H. Stizman, 52, and Virginia Pierceall, 35, all of 513 W. B.

George said the trio told him the boat just started to go under, with sizeable wind-blown waves coming over the bow of their small fishing boat.

They yelled for help to a couple of horsemen on the shore, who notified the Fire Department, George reported.

Westview Home Residents Unhappy With Quarters At Lancaster Manor

Most of the 39 elderly persons forced to evacuate Westview Home Friday night after a fire are unhappy with their temporary quarters at Lancaster Manor, the co-manager of Westview said Sunday.

Mrs. Thelma Grubb said the residents miss their gardens and their fresh-air strolls around the sprawling grounds of Westview, located northwest of Lincoln off U.S. 34.

"They're not used to the new surroundings," said Mrs. Grubb, who runs Westview with her husband, Dean. "They're used to being outside, and they don't like being shut up with nothing to do but watch television," she said.

Colin Favors Return

After returning Sunday from an inspection of Westview, County Commissioner Robert E. Colin said he favors sending the residents back as soon as the home is repaired. "It's criminal to lock those people up in Lancaster Manor when so many are able to get outside," Colin said.

Mrs. Grubb said the patients will be able to return at the end of this week if repairs are made as planned. The damage was confined to the third-floor attic, which was used only for storage, she said.

The lower floors sustained negligible water damage, she said, and the residents can move back as soon as the smoke smell is scrubbed away.

"State Is Cooperating"

Commissioner William Grossman said the 39 additional residents at Lancaster Manor joined 115 already there. He said the licensed capacity of the home is 123, but "the state is cooperating with us."

Joe Hagaman of the State Health Department, in charge of nursing home licenses, said that "because of the emergency situation, the residents on a temporary basis would be housed over the capacity of the license."

Crash Kills 2 In Tecumseh

Tecumseh (UPI) — The State Patrol has reported the deaths of a Tecumseh woman and her 14-year-old daughter.

Lula Knippenmeyer and her daughter, Marylyn, were killed Friday night when their car was struck by a freight train at a crossing within the city.

The patrol said the accident occurred about 7 p.m.

The train engineer was identified as L. R. Kline, 36, of St. Joseph, Mo.

FBI Arrests Pair For Robbing Ames Plaza Bank

Denver (AP) — Two men charged with robbing an Omaha bank of more than $12,000 Friday night were arrested Sunday by FBI agents at Stapleton International Airport in Denver, officials said.

The suspects were identified as Robert Scott Shindo, 22, and Richard E. Watenpugh, 23, both of Omaha.

John F. Morley, special agent in charge of the Denver FBI office, said the fugitives were apprehended while changing flights on a trip from Las Vegas, Nev. to Omaha.

Shindo and Watenpugh would be given a hearing Monday before a U.S. magistrate, Morley said.

The winter cruise people are after you (and me). Gorgeous color folders of sun-tanned people. A song bird wrote the brochure. They're free. (If you can't cruise, run water in the tub and dream.)

Here's what happened to me: Mermoz (Paquet Line) winter cruises from Fort Lauderdale to the Caribbean. A French champagne ship. Swingy discotheque. French food is great. Service spotty because of new waiters. But maybe it's better this year.

TS Hamburg. A German job now handled by Holland-America from the West Coast with cruises to the Caribbean. Service is German correct. Food heavy German, not much imagination.

P and O cruising the Caribbean from the West Coast with those enormous British ships. Via Mexico. Much experience in the cruising business. Well-priced. Bar service excellent by old-line stewards. Dining room so-so.

Princess Italia (West Coast to the Caribbean South America and a number of short trips to Mexico). High marks for this one. Great food. Excellent service. Good social program.

Pacific Far East Line runs the ships that Matson used to cruise to Hawaii and the South Pacific. Top performance on all counts.

American President Lines from the West Coast to Hawaii and the Orient. Another topper. All ways. Great program for children.

Above does not bum-rap other cruise ships. I just haven't been on them. Most ships have a fly-cruise plan. Cruise out, fly back. Or reverse it.

"What do we wear on a cruise ship? I mean how formal is it?"

Day wear is most casual. Shorts. Bathing suits. Aloha shirts. But at 4:30, the birds disappear. They are down in the cabin feathering for the evening. And it seemed to me most of them feel they must have a different cocktail dress every night.

Not so for men. Men are wearing tuxedos a lot less. Substituting a dark suit. On a seven-day Caribbean cruise, I did the black tie only twice: Once for the captain's dinner night; the other because I felt like it.

Women jitter about that captain's dinner night because they feel it calls for a formal gown. Enough women bring one along (with only one chance to wear it) to make the non-wearers feel terrible.

But consider the nights you don't dress: Custom is no dress up the first night out and last night before getting into port. One night is masquerade costume. (The stewards' department has all the makings so don't pack one.) Usually one other no-dress night: A special party on deck or something like that.

Westours is a fly-cruise. Fly to the South Pacific. Cruise the coconut islands with some far-out stops. Friend of mine gives good report on this. Puts a knock on French UTA who flies you there. (Says bathrooms not cleaned. Uninspired service and food.) Cruise great though.

"Any thought about houseboats on the inland waterways of Europe?"

I know all about doing this on the Thames — I loved it. Small boats are for hire on the Continent. Find out who and where from government tourist office. Good books: Englishman named Roger Pilkington has done a series of personal experiences titled: "Small Boat on the Thames" and similar titles with names of rivers for Europe. Maybe in your library. Big book stores like Foyle's in London sell them.

"We are looking for a seaside resort next summer in Britain. We've heard of Brighton."

A starched Coney Island. Full of dreary hotels where elderly ladies take afternoon tea and listen to stringed orchestras playing "Music To Hang Yourself By."

Harris Poll Shows Connally Liked ... OVER AGNEW BY 52% TO 36%

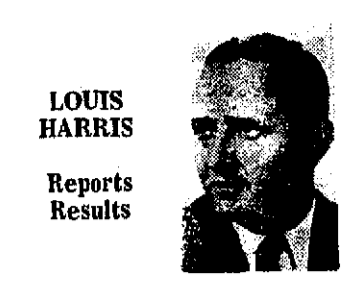

By LOUIS HARRIS

By 52% to 36%, a majority of the American people would like to see Secretary of the Treasury John Connally replace Spiro Agnew as President Nixon's vice presidential running mate in 1972. However, among Republicans only, Agnew is preferred over Connally by 53% to 39%.

Connally has risen to particular prominence as the man running the President's new economic policy. Although a life-long Democrat, the former governor of Texas has been the subject of much speculation that he might end up on the Nixon ticket at next year's Republican convention.

The Harris Survey also found that Vice President Agnew's standing among the American public has dropped to a new low, with only 35% giving him positive marks on the way he is handling his job, compared with a much higher 52% who give him a negative rating.

From this initial sounding, it is fair to conclude that Secretary Connally would likely add more strength to the Republican ticket in 1972 running for vice president than would the present incumbent, Agnew. However, if the matter were put to a test among a cross section of Republican voters, Agnew would begin with a clear lead in a two-way preference choice. But Republicans represent no more than 27% of the total electorate, and to win any GOP ticket must be capable of capturing substantial portions of the Independent and Democratic vote.

A cross section of 1,548 potential voters was asked between Aug. 24 and 27: "Suppose it came down to a choice between Vice President Spiro Agnew and Secretary of the Treasury John Connally as to who would be the candidate for Vice President on the Republican ticket with President Nixon in 1972, whom would you prefer?"

FREE APPLICATION

Bob Berrier Says:

All knowledgeable Turf Men know that Fall lawn feeding does more for a lawn than at any other time of the year. For one week only (Sept. 27 thru Oct. 2) we will apply Turf Builder or Super Turf Builder FREE OF CHARGE. You buy from us the size bag of your choice and there will be no charge for application.

When I was in Marysville this summer, Scotts top flite turf specialists told me about the benefits of Fall use of Turf Builder. All of us here at WILLIAMS NURSERY know this to be true. Many Lincoln lawn owners have experienced similar results with Fall Turf Builder application. Do you know that you can still buy a 15,000 sq. ft. bag for only $13.95?

TURF BUILDER is the prolonged release fertilizer. Its nutrients are locked in and are released only as the grass can use them. So there's no spindly surge growth to cause extra mowing, and no wasteful loss of nutrients due to leaching. Instead, your lawn grows thicker, greener and sturdier. Stays that way longer, too.

5,000 sq. ft. bag (22 lbs.)	5.45
10,000 sq. ft. bag (44 lbs.)	9.95
15,000 sq. ft. bag (66 lbs.)	13.95

If you want extra greening power for your lawn this year

Then your bag is Scotts SUPER TURF BUILDER. It contains even more greening power than regular Turf Builder. And like Scotts regular Turf Builder, it will not harm the grass, or grass seed, in any weather. SUPER TURF BUILDER is clean, odorless, a pleasure to use. Just the thing for the lawn that needs that "something extra."

State Colleges Will Request $10.1 Million

The board of trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges approved a capital construction budget request of $10.1 million for the four state colleges.

The request, along with a general budget request of $16.3 million approved earlier in the month by the board, will now go to the State Department of Administrative Services for scrutiny before Gov. J. James Exon makes his determination.

All of the capital construction money would come from the state tax supported general fund.

Given the top priority for capital construction by the board was a classroom-administration building at Kearney State College which is expected to cost $1.89 million.

her husband, Dean. "They're used to being outside, and they don't like being shut up with nothing to do but watch television," she said.

Colin Favors Return

After returning Sunday from an inspection of Westview, County Commissioner Robert E. Colin said he favors sending the residents back as soon as the home is repaired. "It's criminal to lock those people up in Lancaster Manor when so many are able to get outside," Colin said.

Mrs. Grubb said the patients will be able to return at the end of this week if repairs are made as planned. The damage was confined to the third-floor attic, which was used only for storage, she said.

The lower floors sustained negligible water damage, she said, and the residents can move back as soon as the smoke smell is scrubbed away.

'State Is Cooperating'

Commissioner William Grossman said the 39 additional residents at Lancaster Manor joined 115 already there. He said the licensed capacity of the home is 123, but "the state is cooperating with us."

Joe Hagaman of the State Health Department, in charge of nursing home licenses, said that "because of the emergency situation, the residents on a temporary basis would be housed over the capacity of the license."

Crash Kills 2 In Tecumseh

Tecumseh (UPI) — The State Patrol has reported the deaths of a Tecumseh woman and her 14-year-old daughter.

Lula Knippenmeyer and her daughter, Marilyn, were killed Friday night when their car was struck by a freight train at a crossing within the city.

The patrol said the accident occurred about 7 p.m.

The train engineer was identified as L. R. Kline, 36, of St. Joseph, Mo.

FBI Arrests Pair For Robbing Ames Plaza Bank

Denver (AP) — Two men charged with robbing an Omaha bank of more than $12,000 Friday night were arrested Sunday by FBI agents at Stapleton International Airport in Denver, officials said.

The suspects were identified as Robert Scott Shindo, 22, and Richard E. Watenpaugh, 23, both of Omaha.

John F. Morley, special agent in charge of the Denver FBI office, said the fugitives were apprehended while changing flights on a trip from Las Vegas, Nev. to Omaha.

Shindo and Watenpaugh would be given a hearing Monday before a U.S. magistrate, Morley said.

Two Bodies Are Found In Plane

Potwin, Kan. (AP) — A private plane containing the bodies of two Nebraska men was found Sunday afternoon in a maize field about three miles north of this southeast Kansas community.

The plane was located by Civil Air Patrol searchers about 2 p.m. It had taken off from Newton, some 16 miles to the northeast, about 8:30 Saturday morning bound for Bartlesville, Okla. CAP officials in Newton said there was a 1,500-foot heavy overcast at the time.

CAP officials identified the pilot as Robert Kraus, and his passenger as Delbert Atteberry, a Nazarene Church minister, both from Superior, Neb. The bodies were taken to Wichita.

The wreckage was spotted by three men from the Wichita CAP chapter, Gene Beary, Terry Stillwaugh and Henry Weirbach.

Investigators said the single-engine plane was demolished except for the tail section but did not burn. The plane was more than a mile from the nearest farm house and not visible from the nearest road.

The winter cruise people are after you (and me). Gorgeous color folders of sun-tanned people. A song bird wrote the brochure. They're free. (If you can't cruise, run water in the tub and dream.)

Here's what happened to me: Mermoz (Paquet Line) winter cruises from Fort Lauderdale to the Caribbean. A French champagne ship. Swinging discotheque. French food is great. Service spotty because of new waiters. But maybe it's better this year.

TS Hamburg. A German job now handled by Holland-America from the West Coast with cruises to the Caribbean. Service is German correct. Food heavy German, not much imagination.

P and O cruising the Caribbean from the West Coast with those enormous British ships. Via Mexico. Much experience in the cruising business. Well-priced. Bar service excellent by old-line stewards. Dining room so-so.

Princess Italia (West Coast to the Caribbean South America and a number of short trips to Mexico). High marks for this one. Great food. Excellent service. Good social program.

Pacific Far East Line runs the ships that Matson used to cruise to Hawaii and the South Pacific. Top performance on all counts.

State Colleges Will Request $10.1 Million

The board of trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges approved a capital construction budget request of $10.1 million for the four state colleges.

The request, along with a general budget request of $16.3 million approved earlier in the month by the board, will now go to the State Department of Administrative Services for scrutiny before Gov. J. James Exon makes his determination.

All of the capital construction money would come from the state tax supported general fund.

Given the top priority for capital construction by the board was a classroom-administration building at Kearney State College which is expected to cost $1.89 million.

Harris Poll Shows Connally Liked ... OVER AGNEW BY 52% TO 36%

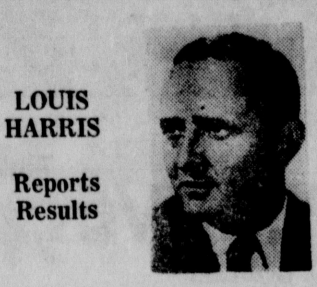

By LOUIS HARRIS

By 52% to 36%, a majority of the American people would like to see Secretary of the Treasury John Connally replace Spiro Agnew as President Nixon's vice presidential running mate in 1972. However, among Republicans only, Agnew is preferred over Connally by 53% to 39%.

Connally has risen to particular prominence as the man running the President's new economic policy. Although a life-long Democrat, the former governor of Texas has been the subject of much speculation that he might end up on the Nixon ticket at next year's Republican convention.

The Harris Survey also found that Vice President Agnew's standing among the American public has dropped to a new low, with only 35% giving him positive marks on the way he is handling his job, compared with a much higher 52% who give him a negative rating.

From this initial sounding, it is fair to conclude that Secretary Connally would likely add more strength to the Republican ticket in 1972 running for vice president than would the present incumbent, Agnew. However, if the matter were put to a test among a cross section of Republican voters, Agnew would begin with a clear lead in a two-way preference choice. But Republicans represent no more than 27% of the total electorate, and to win any GOP ticket must be capable of capturing substantial portions of the Independent and Democratic vote.

A cross section of 1,548 potential voters was asked between Aug. 24 and 27: "Suppose it came down to a choice between Vice President Spiro Agnew and Secretary of the Treasury John Connally as to who would be the candidate for Vice President on the Republican ticket with President Nixon in 1972, whom would you prefer?"

Bob Berrier Says:

When I was in Marysville this summer, Scotts top flite turf specialists told me about the benefits of Fall use of Turf Builder. All of us here at WILLIAMS NURSERIES know this to be true. Many Lincoln lawn owners have experienced similar results with Fall Turf Builder application. Do you know that you can still buy a 15,000 sq. ft. bag for only $13.95?

Not so for men. Men are wearing tuxedos a lot less. Substituting a dark suit. On a seven-day Caribbean cruise, I did the black tie only twice: Once for the captain's dinner night; the other because I felt like it.

Women jitter about that captain's dinner night because they feel it calls for a formal gown. Enough women bring one along (with only one chance to wear it) to make the non-wearers feel terrible.

But consider the nights you don't dress: Custom is no dress up the first night out and last night before getting into port. One night is masquerade costume. (The stewards' department has all the makings so don't pack one.) Usually one other no-dress night: A special party on deck or something like that.

Westours is a fly-cruise. Fly to the South Pacific. Cruise the coconut islands with some far-out stops. Friend of mine gives good report on this. Puts a knock on French UTA who flies you there. (Says bathrooms not cleaned. Uninspired service and food.) Cruise great though.

"Any thought about houseboats on the inland waterways of Europe?"

I know all about doing this on the Thames — I loved it. Small boats are for hire on the Continent. Find out who and where from government tourist office. Good books: Englishman named Roger Pilkington has done a series of personal experiences titled: "Small Boat on the Thames" and similar titles with names of rivers for Europe. Maybe in your library. Big book stores like Foyle's in London sells them.

"We are looking for a seaside resort next summer in Britain. We've heard of Brighton."

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Everyone knows the weather is changing its seasonal trends — due, of course, to nuclear explosions, breaking the sound barrier, disturbing the moon and so forth. But it has taken the President of the United States to give the theory official sanction.

Thus, we are having a freeze even before summer is officially ended and we will have a thaw after fall is well upon us. The thaw will extend, even, far into the winter. Things may not be righted until and/or unless the thaw extends all the way into next spring.

Economics and the weather, however, have always gone hand in hand so this latest development should come as no surprise to anyone. Good rains are an economic boon to Nebraska and a dry spell is disastrous for us. Merchants like good weather to bring the shoppers out and they go for an early freeze to put everyone in mind of the approaching need for winter clothing.

Auto suppliers do a big business on the changing of the seasons. Cars must be winterized, which includes at least a good supply of anti-freeze. The winterizing may also run all the way — to snow tires and a major tune-up.

Once the harsh days of winter are here, we can look forward to such things as having the car towed in when it won't start and boys can make a little extra pocket money shoveling sidewalks and driveways.

It will not be long now before the birds begin their annual flight south. This always makes for a state of confusion in the spring. Spring brings a rash of calls about the first robin's arrival when, in fact, there is a lot of opinion to the effect that all the robins never go south to begin with.

The matter would be solved if we could look for the last robin in the fall rather than the first one in the spring. If the robin does, indeed, stay up north through the winter, looking for the last one could prolong the fall indefinitely.

Winter could never come, officially, until the last robin has been spotted for the year. No doubt a lot of robins would be spotted in November and only some fewer in December.

During those months, there are still a lot of days when people can be out of doors, with an opportunity to witness the presence of whatever life there is at the moment. By January, nature is throwing some pretty cruel stuff our way but some hardy souls still venture outside for a look around.

If a few robins remain behind, surely someone will spot one in January. The minute one is seen, we will all know that the real force of winter has not yet arrived.

This would produce periodic anxiety, but always tempered with hope. With a storm or two behind us and another robin spotted, people might logically be concerned about what might happen when winter really hits. Still, they would always know that someone might spot another robin tomorrow, meaning winter has not yet quite caught up with us.

In February, those people going outside would have to be particularly alert. If robins stay around in the winter, surely they must have sense enough to find some shelter. They are not likely to be sitting on the frozen bird bath chirping away in song.

Where they might be, we don't know, perhaps snug in a bird house or huddled together in the branches of some tree. But they would have to come out now and then for food and water and it is then that the alert citizen could spot them.

A report on the apparent last robin in February would really be a big thing. That would mean that we were already well through winter and the season still had not arrived. And consider March, a prime contender for sorriest month of the year.

A robin seen in March would really turn the trick, meaning spring was on the threshold without winter's ever having got started. And sometime along there, we could start looking again for the first robin back from the south, giving us a double-barreled shot of good fortune.

If you can have a freeze in the summer and a thaw in the winter, anything ought to be possible.

Law Profession Becoming Most Lucrative Of Trades

WASHINGTON — Any law school worth its salt has five to 10 applicants for each first-year place. This one statistic tells a good bit about the growing attraction of law as a profession in the United States.

A popular explanation for the phenomenon is that young people are turning to a legal career as an outlet for their idealism — as a means of righting the social wrongs that they perceive. But the truth seems to be that high pay and status rather than a social conscience is the appeal. A survey of 375 Stanford Law School graduates in the past three years, for example, showed that only 6.1 per cent were working for "pro bono" legal service programs, compared to 45.3 per cent at law firms.

Financially, reports Forbes magazine, "lawyers have never had it so good." The nation's 325,000 active lawyers earned an average of $25,000 a year in 1970, quadruple the figure for 1950. Minimum fee schedules established in two-thirds of the 50 states set a floor under earnings, and the lawyer can always charge more.

Richard M. Nixon took a 33 per cent pay cut when he moved from the Wall Street law firm of Nixon, Judge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander & Mitchell into the $200,000-a-year job as president of the United States.

Law as a profession has had its ups and downs in the United States. Before the Revolutionary War period, lawyers were held in low esteem. "Many of the colonists had fled the Star Chamber and other oppressive activities in which lawyers and the judicial process were balefully implicated in England," explains one legal scholar.

But their image improved as lawyers moved to the forefront of the revolutionary struggle.

Twenty-five of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence were lawyers. As late as 1835, Alexis de Tocqueville was able to write the lawyers "form the highest political class and the most cultivated portion of society."

Jacksonian populism undermined the position of elites, including lawyers. By 1860, 75 per cent of the states had abolished all special requirements for the practice of law. Not until 1920 did the American Bar Association require three years of law study before admission to the bar.

Today we live in a legal-minded society, whose complexities invite litigation. Real estate transactions, a rising divorce rate, tax regulations, business and corporate dealings, high crime rates, auto accident suits — all this is grist for the legal mill.

With careers in science and social studies down, bright college students see law as an alternative. Enrollment in accredited law schools has more than doubled in the last decade and in the 1970-71 school year stood at an estimated 84,000. U.S. News & World Report noted that this year 110,000 persons took the Law School Admission Test. Nationwide there are three applicants for every one of the 37,000 first-year places in the 146 law schools-across-the-country.

Even students bent on a money-oriented career are demanding change both in their schooling and in the law. Fortune magazine reports that the best young law graduates "have seized upon the law as a tool to fashion social change," but warns that in their zeal "they may be loading the legal system with unbearable burdens." The young lawyers may become rich, but they are also angry.

'I Was Still Trying To Get Home Rule When Somebody Took Home Plate'

Agnew's Red Scare

Murphy's Law says that if anything can go wrong, it will. Then there is Mitchell's Law, which states that given a telephone, Martha will use it. And the Agnew Corollary: The Vice President of the United States needs no excuse to say something foolish.

Vice President Agnew was in form last week when he spoke before the National Security Industrial Association, citing recent statements by four Democratic presidential contenders — George McGovern, Edmund Muskie, Edward Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey — in which they called for either a sharp cut in defense spending or a reordering of national priorities.

"None of them. I am sure, would draw any comfort," Agnew said, from the fact that Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party USA, agrees fully with their oft-stated goal of forcing a U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam and further 'reordering' the nation's priorities."

Most Americans, we think, would agree with the reaction of Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who said Agnew's attack was

"a most unfair comparison and utterly uncalled for." Most Americans want their country out of Vietnam and wish that money could be spent for grander things than war. This must seem a rank heresy to the vice president.

But even Agnew can't believe that to love peace and to demand a stricter accounting of the spending of national resources is to parrot the communist line and is therefore un-American in character.

Such comparisons as Agnew's, however ambiguous, are silly and useless. History's record undoubtedly shows countless examples of ideological opposites agreeing in specific instances.

The United States, by evolution not design, is closer today to the Communist Party USA ideal than it was 10, 20, 30 or 40 years ago. How, then, does Agnew view the President? Does this make President Nixon, who, unless we are mistaken, has had much to do with shaping the country in recent years, a dupe of the international communist conspiracy, just as Gen. Eisenhower was labeled by the John Birch Society?

Time To Choose

The U.S. Supreme Court wisely decided last week to revamp its calendar for the coming term by shifting several major cases further down the docket. To be heard in the winter months, rather than in October, as originally scheduled, are questions involving the constitutionality of the death penalty, civil rights, criminal procedure, the jury system, sex discrimination and pollution.

The court really had no choice as the seats vacated by Justices Hugo Black and John Harlan might not be filled in time for the new justices to hear the cases that had been set for Oct. 12. The legal questions involved merit consideration by a full nine-member court.

And President Nixon and the Senate need ample time to consider the appointment and confirmation of Black's and Harlan's replacements. It might not be such a heavy matter if the President's judgment could be trusted entirely and the country would realize that after the political implications fade away, justices have tended to be their own men and have followed an independent course as the years wear on.

But Nixon talks about the need for a southerner, assuredly this time, and a woman, next time, if not this, when the talk should be about finding the best minds possible to fill two awfully big chairs. Nixon's search to fulfill his concept of "balance" and judicial philosophy in two earlier appointments fully justified the editorial and public clamor raised against them.

The Senate, again, has its responsibility to uphold. It can ill afford to let President Nixon's penchant for a strict constructionist judicial philosophy stand above judicial competence.

Returning Students Still Hub Of Peace Action; Move Reviving, Joined By Numerous Others

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Many of the seven hundred or so persons who braved a downpour to gather in the chapel at Wake Forest University were puzzled at the news just in from Washington.

The Senate has passed the draft bill, after gutting the Mansfield amendment to withdraw all American troops from Vietnam in nine months.

Maybe the Senate's action, coming after a seven-month struggle, reflected a feeling among senators that the public has lost interest in the war, that it is no longer a cutting political issue and that Nixon has won public permission to "wind it down" in his own way and at his own pace. But if so, you couldn't tell it here.

The gathering in the chapel was sponsored by the local chapter of the North Carolina Committee to End the War, and it was only the latest in a series of successful meetings. Yet, this southern industrial city is not noted for political radicalism, and neither is Wake Forest; and the South generally is considered the most hawkish part of the country.

So Nixon — as well as senators who once again refused to put any real check on his power to conduct the war as he sees it, and for as long — should not be under the impression that opposition to the war is dead. In fact, the Winston-Salem meeting was a good example of the extent to which it has spread beyond "the kids" and the radicals to the middle class, the affluent and the middle-aged.

That may be one reason why the anti-war movement seems less vociferous and active than a year or so ago; it's been infiltrated by age and moderation. Another is that Nixon's prospective Democratic opponents are primarily battling among themselves at the moment, rather than attacking the President on the war issue.

American casualties have been greatly reduced, diminishing the sharpest point on which opponents of the war could focus. Unilateral withdrawal does continue, if far too slowly and even though the end result is uncertain. Numerous other major concerns—Nixon's China venture, his spectacular economic self-reversal and the consequent wage-price freeze, the tragedy at Attica — have dominated the headlines for weeks.

But now the students are returning to the campus after a long summer of dispersal, and — as has been true from its beginnings — they are still the heart and core of the peace movement. Many possibilities lie ahead that could arouse them to the old pitch—perhaps with the new allies.

For one thing, the full impact of President Thieu's bizarre manipulation of his country's elections process has not yet been felt. If the one-man election formally makes him South Vietnam's dictator, or if his high-handed tactics bring on a coup or substantial political unrest in Saigon, the political effect in this country could be incendiary, and not just among doves. The familiar "self-determination" rationale for continuing the war would be destroyed.

For another thing, Nixon soon must announce his plan

They've been in and out of here several times before ... but this week's rush has all the appearances of an invasion.

Whatever it is, it is already underway.

First in yesterday was Edmund Muskie. Next up to bat is Henry Jackson, who bounces in tomorrow to address organized labor's state convention in North Platte.

Then come the only two announced candidates: Fred Harris, fresh from a formal announcement of candidacy, follows Jackson to North Platte on Wednesday, and then George McGovern comes to the campus in Lincoln Friday.

That should keep things popping politically.

It is also a fresh and forceful reminder of the value of Nebraska's presidential primary election system. Without an open, all-star primary, it is doubtful that we would see any of the four senators this week.

But the primary brings them ... and they get to know us and our problems a little better, and we get to know them better.

And should one of them become president one day, he will know something about Nebraska, its fears, its aspirations, its economic and social needs, its problems and its promise.

France Alarmed At Russian-German Talks

Rome — France is becoming increasingly concerned about West Germany's power and policies in Europe, and especially about Chancellor Willy Brandt's tendency to deal independently with Russia.

Brandt's visit to the Crimea for two days of private talks with Soviet Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev particularly upset the French, partly because the German Socialist chancellor accepted the Russian ruler's invitation without consulting the Western Allies.

The fact that Brandt accepted the invitation to confer in Russia with Brezhnev for the second time within a year when he knew the Soviet leader was scheduled to visit President Pompidou in Paris the latter part of next month also annoyed the French.

It was seen as casting a shadow over the Pompidou-Brezhnev meeting and it intensified French fears that West Germany was being wooed away from Western trade possibilities in the Soviet bloc and by Brandt's eagerness to strengthen his political position by playing the leading role in bringing about an East-West detente in Europe.

Not since the foundation of the German Federal Republic after World War II has the French press expressed such strong suspicion and distrust of West German policy as it has over this latest visit by Brandt to Russia. The apparent haste with which Brandt, without first consulting the others, agreed to fly to the secluded confines of a Black Sea resort to confer with Brezhnev was considered incomprehensible.

Although the spirit if not the letter of the Franco-German friendship treaty calls for close consultation between the two governments on all matters affecting their interests, Brandt did not consult the French about his decision to accept the Soviet invitation to discuss European peace problems. He informed the French and the other Allies of his decision after he had accepted the invitation.

When Paris reacted angrily, a Bonn spokesman snapped, somewhat arrogantly, that the German government "did not have to consult anyone about invitations from foreign governments." It is this sort of attitude that makes the French fear the Germans when they become powerful.

Brandt's virtual tete-a-tete with Brezhnev in the Crimea led France's two leading newspapers, "Le Monde" and "Figaro," to voice grave apprehension over the way West Germany seems to be turning towards Russia.

"Le Monde" said the "anxieties and recriminations" caused by Bonn's actions were significant of the "survival of reawakening" of "a certain distrust" between France and the German Federal Republic.

This liberal and influential afternoon newspaper with a countrywide circulation warned that Russia has evidently not "despaired" of playing Bonn and Paris off against one another and that Brandt also appears ready to play both sides, a policy which "two times already has led the world to catastrophe."

Early in 1972, moreover, Rep. Pete McCloskey will be opening a primary campaign directly concentrated on Nixon's war policy, and sooner or later as the Democratic field narrows, other candidates, too, will be turning their attentions to Nixon and Vietnam.

Because of his failure to respond to the N.L.F. proposals at Paris, the President can no longer distort the prisoner-of-war issue to anesthetize the opposition. The military apparently fear a major communist offensive, as American forces dwindle. And every time Nixon resumes bombing of North Vietnam, he plays with political fire.

Any or all of these things — and others — could give vigorous new energy to a peace movement that is alive and well in Winston-Salem, and probably no more than dormant elsewhere.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Everyone knows the weather is changing its seasonal trends — due, of course, to nuclear explosions, breaking the sound barrier, disturbing the moon and so forth. But it has taken the President of the United States to give the theory official sanction.

Thus, we are having a freeze even before summer is officially ended and we will have a thaw after fall is well upon us. The thaw will extend, even, far into the winter. Things may not be righted until and/or unless the thaw extends all the way into next spring.

Economics and the weather, however, have always gone hand in hand so this latest development should come as no surprise to anyone. Good rains are an economic boon to Nebraska and a dry spell is disastrous for us. Merchants like good weather to bring the shoppers out and they go for an early freeze to put everyone in mind of the approaching need for winter clothing.

Auto suppliers do a big business on the changing of the seasons. Cars must be winterized, which includes at least a good supply of anti-freeze. The winterizing may also run all the way — to snow tires and a major tune-up.

Once the harsh days of winter are here, we can look forward to such things as having the car towed in when it won't start and boys can make a little extra pocket money shoveling sidewalks and driveways.

It will not be long now before the birds begin their annual flight south. This always makes for a state of confusion in the spring. Spring brings a rash of calls about the first robin's arrival when, in fact, there is a lot of opinion to the effect that all the robins never go south to begin with.

The matter would be solved if we could look for the last robin in the fall rather than the first one in the spring. If the robin does, indeed, stay up north through the winter, looking for the last one could prolong the fall indefinitely.

Winter could never come, officially, until the last robin has been spotted for the year. No doubt a lot of robins would be spotted in November and only some fewer in December.

During those months, there are still a lot of days when people can be out of doors, with an opportunity to witness the presence of whatever life there is at the moment. By January, nature is throwing some pretty cruel stuff our way but some hardy souls still venture outside for a look around.

If a few robins remain behind, surely someone will spot one in January. The minute one is seen, we will all know that the real force of winter has not yet arrived.

This would produce periodic anxiety, but always tempered with hope. With a storm or two behind us and another robin spotted, people might logically be concerned about what might happen when winter really hits. Still, they would always know that someone might spot another robin tomorrow, meaning winter has not yet quite caught up with us.

In February, those people going outside would have to be particularly alert. If robins stay around in the winter, surely they must have sense enough to find some shelter. They are not likely to be sitting on the frozen bird bath chirping away in song.

Where they might be, we don't know, perhaps snuggled in a bird house or huddled together in the branches of some tree. But they would have to come out now and then for food and water and it is then that the alert citizen could spot them.

A report on the apparent last robin in February would really be a big thing. That would mean that we were already well through winter and the season still had not arrived. And consider March, a prime contender for sorriest month of the year.

A robin seen in March would really turn the trick, meaning spring was on the threshold without winter's ever having got started. And sometime along there, we could start looking again for the first robin back from the south, giving us a double-barreled shot of good fortune.

If you can have a freeze in the summer and a thaw in the winter, anything ought to be possible.

Law Profession Becoming Most Lucrative Of Trades

WASHINGTON — Any law school worth its salt has five to 10 applicants for each first-year place. This one statistic tells a good bit about the growing attraction of law as a profession in the United States.

A popular explanation for the phenomenon is that young people are turning to a legal career as an outlet for their idealism — as a means of righting the social wrongs that they perceive. But the truth seems to be that high pay and status rather than a social conscience is the appeal. A survey of 375 Stanford Law School graduates in the past three years, for example, showed that only 6.1 per cent were working for "pro bono" legal service programs, compared to 45.3 per cent at law firms.

Financially, reports Forbes magazine, "lawyers have never had it so good." The nation's 325,000 active lawyers earned an average of $25,000 a year in 1970, quadruple the figure for 1950. Minimum fee schedules established in two-thirds of the 50 states set a floor under earnings, and the lawyer can always charge more.

Richard M. Nixon took a 33 per cent pay cut when he moved from the Wall Street law firm of Nixon, Judge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander & Mitchell into the $200,000-a-year job as president of the United States.

Law as a profession has had its ups and downs in the United States. Before the Revolutionary War period, lawyers were held in low esteem. "Many of the colonists had fled the Star Chamber and other oppressive activities in which lawyers and the judicial process were balefully implicated in England," explains one legal scholar.

But their image improved as lawyers moved to the forefront of the revolutionary struggle.

Twenty-five of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence were lawyers. As late as 1835, Alexis de Tocqueville was able to write the lawyers "form the highest political class and the most cultivated portion of society."

Jacksonian populism undermined the position of elites, including lawyers. By 1860, 75 per cent of the states had abolished all special requirements for the practice of law. Not until 1920 did the American Bar Association require three years of law study before admission to the bar.

Today we live in a legal-minded society, whose complexities invite litigation. Real estate transactions, a rising divorce rate, tax regulations, business and corporate dealings, high crime rates, auto accident suits — all this is grist for the legal mill.

With careers in science and social studies down, bright college students see law as an alternative. Enrollment in accredited law schools has more than doubled in the last decade and in the 1970-71 school year stood at an estimated 84,000. U.S. News & World Report noted that this year 110,000 persons took the Law School Admission Test. Nationwide there are three applicants for every one of the 37,000 first-year places in the 146 law schools across the country.

Even students bent on a money-oriented career are demanding change both in the law, Forbes magazine reports that the best young law graduates "have seized upon the law as a tool to fashion social change," but warns that in their zeal "they may be loading the legal system with unbearable burdens." The young lawyers may become rich, but they are also angry.

'I Was Still Trying To Get Home Rule When Somebody Took Home Plate'

Agnew's Red Scare

Murphy's Law says that if anything can go wrong, it will. Then there is Mitchell's Law, which states that given a telephone, Martha will use it. And the Agnew Corollary: The Vice President of the United States needs no excuse to say something foolish.

Vice President Agnew was in formal last week when he spoke before the National Security Industrial Association, citing recent statements by four Democratic presidential contenders — George McGovern, Edmund Muskie, Edward Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey — in which they called for either a sharp cut in defense spending or a reordering of national priorities.

"None of them, I am sure, would draw any comfort," Agnew said, from the fact that Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party USA, agrees fully with their oft-stated goal of forcing a U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam and further "reordering" the nation's priorities.

Most Americans, we think, would agree with the reaction of Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who said Agnew's attack was

"a most unfair comparison and utterly uncalled for." Most Americans want their country out of Vietnam and wish that money could be spent for grander things than war. This must seem a rank heresy to the vice president.

But even Agnew can't believe that to love peace and to demand a stricter accounting of the spending of national resources is to parrot the communist line and is therefore un-American in character.

Such comparisons as Agnew's, however ambiguous, are silly and useless. History's record undoubtedly shows countless examples of ideological opposites agreeing in specific instances.

The United States, by evolution not design, is closer today to the Communist Party USA ideal than it was 10, 20, 30 or 40 years ago. How, then, does Agnew view the President? Does this make President Nixon, who, unless we are mistaken, has had much to do with shaping the country in recent years, a dupe of the international communist conspiracy, just as Gen. Eisenhower was labeled by the John Birch Society?

Time To Choose

The U.S. Supreme Court wisely decided last week to revamp its calendar for the coming term by shifting several major cases further down the docket. To be heard in the winter months, rather than in October, as originally scheduled, are questions involving the constitutionality of the death penalty, civil rights, criminal procedure, the jury system, sex discrimination and pollution.

The court really had no choice as the seats vacated by Justices Hugo Black and John Harlan might not be filled in time for the new justices to hear the cases that had been set for Oct. 12. The legal questions involved merit consideration by a full nine-member court.

And President Nixon and the Senate need ample time to consider the appointment and confirmation of Black's and Harlan's replacements. It might not be such a heavy matter if the President's judgment could be trusted entirely and the country would realize that after the political implications fade away, justices have tended to be their own men and have followed an independent course as the years wear on.

But Nixon talks about the need for a southerner, assuredly this time, and a woman, next time, if not this, when the talk should be about finding the best minds possible to fill two awfully big chairs. Nixon's search to fulfill his concept of "balance" and judicial philosophy in two earlier appointments fully justified the editorial and public clamor raised against them.

The Senate, again, has its responsibility to uphold. It can ill afford to let President Nixon's penchant for a strict constructionist judicial philosophy stand above judicial competence.

Returning Students Still Hub Of Peace Action; Move Reviving, Joined By Numerous Others

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Many of the seven hundred or so persons who braved a downpour to gather in the chapel at Wake Forest University were puzzled at the news just in from Washington. The Senate has passed the draft bill, after gutting the Mansfield amendment to withdraw all American troops from Vietnam in nine months.

Maybe the Senate's action, coming after a seven-month struggle, reflected a feeling among senators that the public has lost interest in the war, that it is no longer a cutting political issue and that Nixon has won public permission to "wind it down" in his own way and at his own pace. But if so, you couldn't tell it here.

The gathering in the chapel was sponsored by the local chapter of the North Carolina Committee to End the War, and it was only the latest in a series of successful meetings. "All our tests show that you're allergic to this planet."

Soviets Protest Expulsion Of Officials By British

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union lodged a strong protest Sunday against Britain's expulsion of 105 Russian officials and threatened "corresponding reply measures" if the expulsion order is not rescinded.

Deputy Foreign Minister Semyon Kozirev read the protest note to the British ambassador in Moscow, Sir John Killick, who had been asked to come to the Foreign Ministry. A British spokesman described the meeting as "calm and cool."

"The ministry flatly rejects the allegations that the staff of Soviet institutions in Britain are engaging in activities constituting a threat to Britain's security, as ungrounded and fabricated with obviously provocative aims, hostile to the Soviet Union," the protest note read.

The British Foreign Office announced Friday that it had ordered 105 officials of the Soviet Embassy, the state airline Aeroflot, the Moscow Narodny Bank, the Intourist organization and the trade mission to quit Britain. It accused the officials of engaging in massive espionage operations in the country and said its information came from a defecting Soviet agent.

The Soviet protest note said: "All the responsibility for the possible consequences of this action lie completely, of course, with the British government. If the British side leaves these measures in force, the Soviet side will have nothing to do but to take corresponding reply measures."

Diplomats in Moscow speculated that the Soviet government made its position on the expulsions known relatively early in order to give Britain time to reconsider its action before Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home meets this week with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Both are in New York for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

Most here doubted that the Russians would conduct a tit-for-tat retaliation, although some expulsions are expected.

The British Embassy here has a staff of 78, of which 40 are classified as diplomats. There are also 20 to 30 British exchange students in Russian universities and about 450 representatives of commercial and engineering firms working on projects in the Soviet Union.

The Russians have much to lose by a wholesale expulsion of British engineers and technicians. In recent years, the Soviet Union has been making extensive use of imported technology and has brought in foreign specialists to teach their skills to Soviet technicians.

Russians Indicate Position Change On European Arms Reduction Talks

Helsinki, Finland — The Soviet Union has given Finland a strong indication that it no longer wants the question of a balanced, mutual reduction of European armaments to be taken up at the proposed European Security Conference, a Finnish source said over the weekend.

The reported change in the Soviet position, it is believed here, will remove one of the principal American objections to the long-debated conference. Washington has been afraid that the introduction of the disarmament question would complicate the strategic arms limitation talks and would convert the proposed conference into a propaganda forum.

Finnish sources said that Moscow had now taken the position that the balanced force reduction should be considered in another body, but had not specified its preference.

According to these sources, the United States and Britain are still cool to the conference, which was proposed by the Soviet Union, but are beginning to realize that it is inevitable. Washington prefers to avoid the name given by the Soviet Union and calls it "The Conference on European Security and Cooperation."

Finnish sources said the Soviet Union had now agreed that the conference would be held in Helsinki and that the invitations — to the foreign ministers of all European countries, The United States and Canada — would be issued by Finland, as host.

The conference would take place in the summer of 1972 or possibly early in 1973.

Maurice Schumann, the French foreign minister, upset the Finnish government with his remark, during a recent visit to Berne, Switzerland, that the preparatory meeting should be held in Helsinki but the actual conference should take place in Geneva or elsewhere in Switzerland.

Official sources said, however, that they thought Schumann had only wished to be courteous to his Swiss hosts. They expressed the belief that France would go along with what they said was the overwhelming preference for Helsinki.

Finland's lobbying for the conference, according to well-informed sources, is part of the campaign recently undertaken by President Urho Kekkonen to have Finland play a greater role in international affairs.

Another, they said, is the all-out attempt to obtain the election of Max Jakobson, the Finnish representative at the United Nations, to succeed Secretary General Thant.

British To 'Wait And See'

London (AP) — The British government officially took a cautious wait-and-see line Sunday on a stiff protest from Moscow against the expulsion of 105 Russians.

Informants say there is no intention to rescind the order as demanded by the Kremlin, despite threatened retaliation.

Britain's ambassador in Moscow, Sir John Killick, was summoned to the Soviet Foreign Ministry to receive the protest note.

A British Foreign spokesman said: "We have received the note and we are studying it. There is nothing else to add at the moment."

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE

Available for Ages 1 thru 85

Imagine getting up to $12,000 in Whole Life Insurance...with no physical examination

Unbelievable but true. You can actually get from $1,000 to $12,000 of life insurance (depending on your age) without taking a physical examination if your application is approved.

Even if you are 85 years old, there's no physical examination to take!

You get whole life insurance — the kind that builds cash values year after year. Cash value that's like money in the bank. Cash values that you can accumulate over the years as an estate for your family. Or that you can borrow or even cash in later, if the need arises.

And here's an important point for people who have had insurance for years. Chances are that inflation has made the face value of your life insurance worth much less today than when you bought it. Now you have a golden opportunity to replace that loss with inflation-fighting insurance that builds cash value without taking any qualifying physical exam!

BEST OF ALL, NO MATTER WHAT YOUR AGE OR HOW MUCH INSURANCE YOU WANT — EVEN UP TO THE FULL $12,000 — YOUR FIRST MONTH COSTS ONLY $1.00!

(Renewal rates shown on policy, depending on age and amount of insurance selected.)

Former Wesleyan Coed Is Bride

Chicago, Ill., and Jon Baker of Villisca, Iowa.

The bride appeared in a gown of satin in the ivory tone. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a V-neck and long, fitted sleeves, patterned with appliques of Venetian lace in the rose motif, and the applique motif was repeated on the dirndl skirt. A Camelot cap held in place her cathedral-length veil and matching shoulder-length blushers, and she carried an arrangement of yellow roses on a white Bible.

Mr. Frenzel and his bride will reside at 336 Dawes Circle, in Lincoln.

The bride, a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University, where she is a member of Phi Mu sorority, now is careering as a laboratory assistant at Norden Laboratories.

Mr. Frenzel, also a former student at Nebraska Wesleyan University, now is a sophomore in the College of Business Administration at the University of Nebraska.

At a 2 o'clock ceremony on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 25, the marriage of Miss Jayne Rae Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Reed, to Jon A. Frenzel, son of Mrs. Allen J. Frenzel of Chicago, Ill., and the late Mr. Frenzel, took place at Faith Lutheran Church. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Edgar P. Schmidt.

Alike, floor-length frocks of satin in the gold tone and trimmed with yellow lace were worn by the attendants, including maid of honor Miss Nancy Jane Mocroft of Waverly; and Miss Jean Roberts, Miss Kristine Frenzel of Chicago, Ill., and Miss Kathy Gilliland of David City, the bridesmaids.

The Evening Began In A Gay Mood

The evening may have ended in tears for the guests, but the hostesses were all smiles following the East High School-Northeast High School football game on Friday evening. The evening, however, began in an exceedingly gracious and pleasant manner for the cheerleaders of both high schools. Game time was 7:30 o'clock, but long before that the cheerleaders of East High were greeting the cheerleaders of Northeast — their guests at a pre-game supper — at the home of Miss Leah Loerch. The fun began at 5 o'clock,

Wedding Anniversaries

So many nice things happen on a wedding anniversary — Sometimes there is a party — sometimes members of the family arrive from here and there — and maybe from far-away places.

When Mr. and Mrs. Everett Way celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Sept. 22, it really was a very special day. Their son, Petty Officer (2nd class) James Way flew into Lincoln from Italy where he has been stationed for a tour of duty. PO Way now will have a tour of duty closer to home — Charleston, S.C. Mr. and Mrs. Way have two more sons who helped them celebrate. Charles Way resides in Lincoln and Kevin Way is attending Northeast High School.

For Mr. and Mrs. James E.

Price it was an anniversary party. Although the official anniversary — their 25th — for Mr. and Mrs. Price is today, their two sons, Jerry and Jack, and their daughter, Mrs. Merlin Miller of Lincoln, were hosts and hostesses at an open house on Sunday afternoon at the Havelock Christian Church. The guests were invited to attend between the hours of 2:30 o'clock and 4 o'clock.

Softball

Parents Without Partners and their families took advantage of the first weekend of the autumn season — and the activity took the form of a Sunday afternoon softball game. The game took place at Holmes Park.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Tyrrell had some interesting house guests recently. They were Lt. and Mrs. Jerry Kroese and their son, Patrick of Del Rio, Tex. Mrs. Kroese, by the way, is the former Sharon Crays and, we might add, she is Mrs. Tyrrell's twin sister. When the visitors left Lincoln they went to Eglin Air Force Base at Fort Walton Beach, Fla., where Lt. Kroese will be stationed until Nov. 11.

Back home again are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sadlo who have returned from a two weeks holiday in Europe where they visited Paris, Rome and the high spots in Switzerland. The travelers made the trip with their son-in-law and daughter, both of whom are employed by the United Air Lines at O'Hare Airport in Chicago.

ABBY

a woman of wisdom

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to the parents of the 10-year-old girl who claimed she was molested by a neighbor was dangerously wrong.

You suggest the parents talk to the man and threaten him with exposure to his wife and/or the authorities unless he submit to once to a psychiatric examination and treatment. All of this due to the quite elaborate and unverified story of a 10-year-old girl.

Many good men have been damaged by fanciful stories told by little girls. In your haste to find the man guilty, you overlook the possibility that the girl could be the one needing psychiatric help. Your advice could be harmful to an innocent man. Sign me.

DOUBTFUL
DEAR DOUBTFUL: Thank you for your intelligent letter. You could be right. But what "harm" could be done to an innocent man by insisting that he have a psychiatric examination? If he denied the story, then a confrontation with his young accuser would follow, and soon one or the other would be tripped up in his (or her) lies.

If you think my solution is "harmful", then please suggest a better one.

DEAR ABBY: Some "Worried Parents" wrote in saying their 10-year-old daughter had told them that a neighbor man had shown her some dirty books, tried to "wrestle" with her, and told her some dirty jokes in an attempt to take advantage of her. You advised the parents to talk to the man, calmly, tell him that no healthy-minded man behaves in that manner, and if he didn't voluntarily submit to a psychiatric examination, to threaten to tell his wife and the authorities. Do you realize, Dear Abby, that you are suggesting blackmail?

Did it ever occur to you that the little girl could have made up that story about the man and that he could be innocent? The only thing the parents have to go on is what their 10-year-old daughter told them. And some children have very wild imaginations.

INCENSED IN N.Y.

DEAR INCENSED: Yes, it occurred to me that the child could have been lying. That's why I advised the parents to talk to the man and give him a chance to defend himself, if indeed he could.

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

Take this deal played in a team of four championship some years ago. I held the North hand and South was the last Sidney Silodor of Philadelphia.

Silodor won with the king, cashed six diamonds and five clubs, and thus scored 490 points. We went on to the next deal without giving the matter much thought.

But when the hand came to be played at the other table, where our teammates were East-West the outcome was altogether different.

At this table, South also got to three notrump. Helen Sobel was West and she decided to make a neutral lead instead of a heart. She realized that a heart trick — since South was likely to have the king — and she therefore led the eight of spades.

This departure from the norm had an electric effect upon the play. East enjoyed the lead enormously and reacted very happily by cashing six spade tricks in a row. He then switched to the ten of hearts, permitting Mrs. Sobel to make an equal contribution to the feast by cashing six heart tricks in succession.

As a result — even though then contract at both tables was three notrump played by South — our team had the extraordinary experience of winning twelve tricks with the North-South cards and also twelve tricks with the East-West cards. That's how championships are won!

Pat Nixon Starts Ship On Its Way With Near Miss
 Newport News, Va. (UPI) — To the cheers of a rain-drenched crowd, first lady Pat Nixon christened the nuclear-powered guided missile frigate USS California. Her swing with the champagne bottle very nearly missed.

The 596-foot vessel started slipping down the ways, catching Mrs. Nixon by surprise, but she got the blow in on the bow and some of the wine splattered on her. There was a roar from the crowd of about 1,000 gathered under umbrellas and plastic head covers.

GIANTS CLING TO LEAD

By Associated Press

The San Francisco Giants maintained their slim one-game lead in the torrid National League West race Sunday, bombing the Cincinnati Reds 12-5 as Dick Dietz hit a grand slam home run and knocked in five runs.

Second-place Los Angeles kept pace with the front-runners as the hot Dodgers completed a sweep of their three-game series by stopping the Atlanta Braves 5-2 behind homers by Richie Allen and Duke Sims. The Giants and Dodgers each have three games left in the regular season which winds up this Thursday.

Dietz capped a seven-run fifth inning that wiped out a 2-0 Cincinnati lead and Willie Mays and Bobby Bonds applied the San Francisco crusher by belting two-run homers in the sixth. Dietz, out of action earlier this week when struck by a pitch, then added the game's last run with an RBI single in the ninth.

The Giants' display of slugging included 10 extra-base hits—three homers, six doubles and a triple.

Allen gave the Dodgers a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his 23rd homer and Sims, whose three-run homer helped the Dodgers beat the Braves Saturday, then smacked his fifth circuit shot of the year in the third.

Veteran Hoyt Wilhelm, a former Brave, and Jim Brewer pitched effectively the last three innings in relief of Los Angeles starter

Claude Osteen, who gave up Hank Aaron's 47th homer in the sixth.

In an American League game, Jim Palmer became Baltimore's fourth 20-game winner this year, tying a 51-year-old major league record, as the Orioles topped the Cleveland Indians 5-0. Palmer's three-hitter enabled him to join teammates Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Pat Dobson in the 20-victory circle and equal the mark set by the 1920 Chicago White Sox.

In the day's other National League games, Tom Seaver pitched a one-hitter as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1; rookie Jorge Roque drilled three singles to lead St. Louis over Montreal 7-1 and Roger Freed blasted a three-run homer and run-scoring double as Philadelphia beat Chicago 5-1.

In other American League action, Jim Lonborg pitched a four-hitter as Boston beat Washington 8-1; rookie Rusty Torres laced a two-run homer, two doubles and a single as New York topped Detroit 3-2; Vida Blue won his 24th game and Reggie Jackson, Sal Bando and Dave Duncan walloped homers to pace Oakland over Milwaukee 7-0 and Bill Melton scored from third on a two-out passed ball in the 10th as Chicago defeated California 6-5. Harmon Killebrew lashed a two-run homer to help Minnesota beat Kansas City in the first game of a doubleheader and the Royals won the second with a four-run rally in the fifth inning.

ABA Game At Fremont

Midland College will host an exhibition basketball game Thursday night at 8 between the American Basketball Association teams of the Denver Rockets and Miami Floridians.

With the Cincinnati Royals only scheduling one regular season game in Omaha this season, the game in Fremont Thursday night will be the only other pro basketball slated for Nebraska this season.

Alex Hannum will coach the Rockets this year after quitting the San Diego Rockets who have since moved to Houston.

One rookie who will be playing for Hannum will be former Kansas standout Dave Robisch. Robisch was the fifth-round pick of the Rockets.

The 6-10½ lefthanded Robisch will be used both at forward and center according to Rocket officials.

A total of 17 players were invited to the Denver camp after a rookie camp in June. The squad now numbers 14 with Colorado State University graduate Mike Childress who played in the Husker Classic last year among three rookies who were cut.

Unusual Place Kicker For Chadron

Chadron State College came up with an unexpected and unusual place kicker in Don White.

The Bassett sophomore never scored a point with his toe in high school because his prep coach almost always had Bassett going for the two-point conversion. White once got to kick a PAT and it was good but his team was offside and after the penalty he missed.

So far at Chadron White has kicked a school record 38-yard field goal and all the PATs.

The 5-9, 200-pounder was a member of the 1969 team at Chadron but passed up the sport last year after a disappointing freshman year. He was listed at linebacker but the team two years ago was deep at that position and he wasn't able to advance ahead of the regulars.

White almost transferred to a Texas school but he went out for spring drills this year and won a starting job at linebacker but he still wasn't assured of the place kicking job until fall.

Regular place kicker Mike Kearns was returning but was advised by his doctor this summer to give up football because of a back injury. So when fall season started White was able to earn the job as the place kicker for Chadron.

NIAC Race Still Open

Coaches in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference still see the football title race as indefinite and may go down to the last week of play.

Nebraska Wesleyan coach Harold Chaffee says he's glad the Plainsmen were able to play Dana and Midland early in the season. "Both Dana and Midland are young teams and made mistakes against us," Chaffee said.

"But later in the season the young players won't make so many mistakes and both teams will be tougher."

Doane coach Ray Best whose team beat defending champion Concordia says the rest of the conference schedule will be as tough as the Concordia game. "The conference is better balanced this year than ever and the eventual winner may lose two games," Best assessed.

"The conference champion may have to be decided by a tie-breaking system because two or more teams may tie for the title."

Devaney Not Happy, But Better Off Than Some

By HAL BROWN

Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney was not happy Saturday after his Huskers had extended their unbeaten string to 22 straight with a 34-7 victory over Texas A&M.

But when he read Sunday morning of what happened to some of his companions in the nation's Top Ten, his disappointment over the lack of consistency by his offense Saturday should have been lessened a bit by the fact that his Huskers did win.

That's one salve Woody Hayes at Ohio State, Bill Battle at Tennessee and Frank Broyles at Arkansas didn't have to put on their wounds Sunday morning.

And none of those losses can hardly be blamed on the old looking-ahead theory since Ohio State has only California next week, Arkansas has TCU and Tennessee has Florida.

But whatever the reasons, those three members of the top ten tasted defeat, Ohio State's 20-14 loss to Colorado and Tennessee's 10-9 setback to Auburn can perhaps be attributed to having met and lost to better football teams.

Arkansas, which held a 20-0 halftime lead, can hardly attribute its 21-20 loss to Tulsa to anything other than perhaps being distracted by the pom pom girls.

But after Army's upset of Georgia Tech and Washington State's stunner over Minnesota, if there's a Husker fan who thinks it can't happen to his team, you'd have to put him in the same category as the guy standing outside his house, watching it burn to the ground, after telling a neighbor, "Lightning striking a house is only something you read about happening to other people."

But telling football fans they shouldn't be looking ahead is much like telling your worry wart aunt not to worry.

At this juncture this is particularly true of Big Eight fans who spend their Saturday afternoons in stadiums in Lincoln and in Boulder, Colo.

That looking-ahead date comes up on Oct. 30 in Lincoln and the nationally-televised battle could rival the past two Texas-Arkansas clashes for national attention IF.

And that Big IF is if Nebraska and Colorado can survive four more Saturdays that finds the Huskers facing Utah State, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma State, and the Buffs going against Kansas State, Iowa State, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Big Eight prestige took a gigantic step forward Saturday with Colorado's win over Ohio

State and Oklahoma's impressive triumph over Pittsburgh before the Eastern scribes, who like to think (as false as it is) that Eastern football is good football.

That step up in prestige is sure to be reflected when the polls are taken today with the league certain to have three teams among the top ten.

In intersectional competition this season, the Big Eight has lost only five times while winning 17, racking up a 7-1 margin the past weekend.

Conference play gets underway this weekend with Colorado, which has already beaten one of the best teams in the Southeast Conference (LSU) and one of the best in the Big 10 (Ohio State), now turning its attention to trying to win the Big Eight with Kansas State invading Boulder.

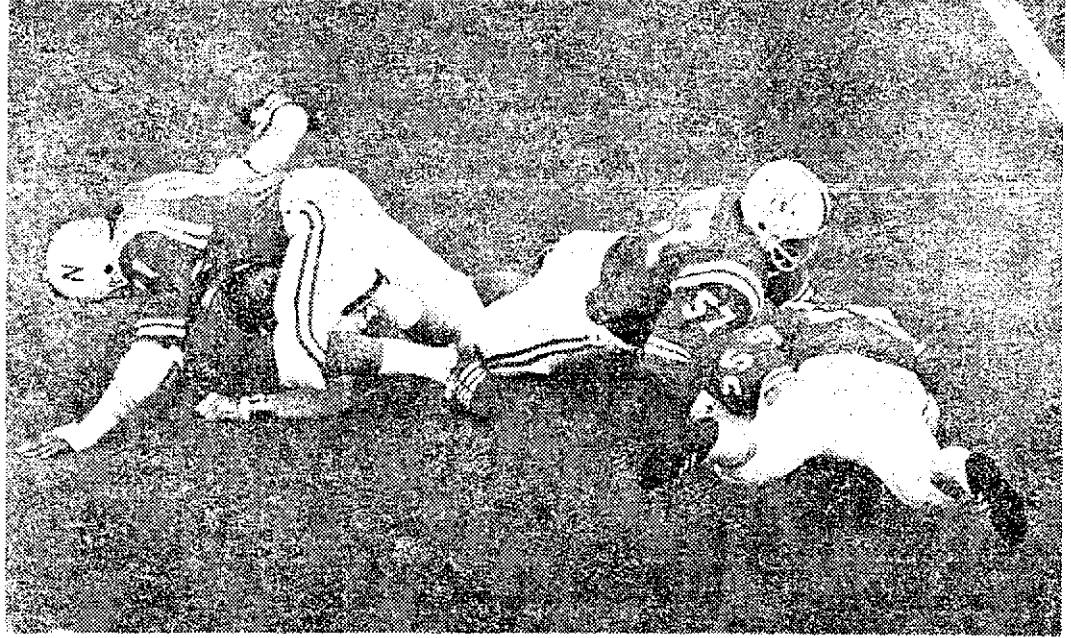

The big game in the Big Eight this week as far as national attention is concerned will be Southern Cal's invasion of Oklahoma.

Other Big Eight games have Nebraska at home against unbeaten Utah State, Kansas going to Minnesota, Iowa State at Kent State and Missouri at Army.

And for those Husker fans, who really want to look ahead, Hawaii opened its season Saturday night by thrashing Linfield College of Portland, Ore., 44-6.

Utah State Scout Finds No Weaknesses

By RANDY EICKHOFF

Star Sports Writer

The job of a football scout is, quite naturally, to find holes in an opponent's defense and offense and advise the coach to unload his heavy artillery at those points.

But what happens when the holes don't appear? "You play it by ear," grins Utah State scout Steve Bernstein.

Following Nebraska's 34-7 shellacking of Texas A & M Saturday, Bernstein said he really had his job cut out for him.

"Your defense is certainly No. 1," the young scout said. "That 55 (tackle Bill Janssen) didn't fold one bit when the Aggies started to run at him. And Willie Harper certainly lived up to his reputation. He's all-America material."

Defensively, Bernstein said that Nebraska was on par with anyone in the country and had the offense to back the defense up.

"Nebraska hasn't any weak spots that we could see," he said. "Those little miscues (fumbles) that happened can happen to any ball team and shouldn't be counted."

But the main problem for Utah State, according to Bernstein, is size.

"You field a much larger team both offensively and defensively than we do," he said seriously while speaking on Utah State problems. "On defense we have one man in the line at 225 and another at 205, but after that we have only one other 'heavy man' and he weighs only 190. We're much smaller than Nebraska."

With size against them, it might be expected that Utah State would be able to rely on quickness but Bernstein says that this isn't the case.

"They're (Nebraska players) probably a little quicker than we are," he commented. "That (Johnny) Rodgers is a real breakaway threat. Look at the opening kickoff for the second half and you can see what I mean."

Rodgers took the opening kickoff on his own two yard line and ran it back 98 yards for a touchdown.

"What amazed me, though," Bernstein said, "was the condition of the Nebraska players. Each one looks in top condition. And with (Jerry) Tagge being in complete control of the game all the time, I don't really see what we can do at this time."

Bernstein said Utah State would try to keep with a balanced attack but quickly added that "when you fall behind, you have to take to the air more."

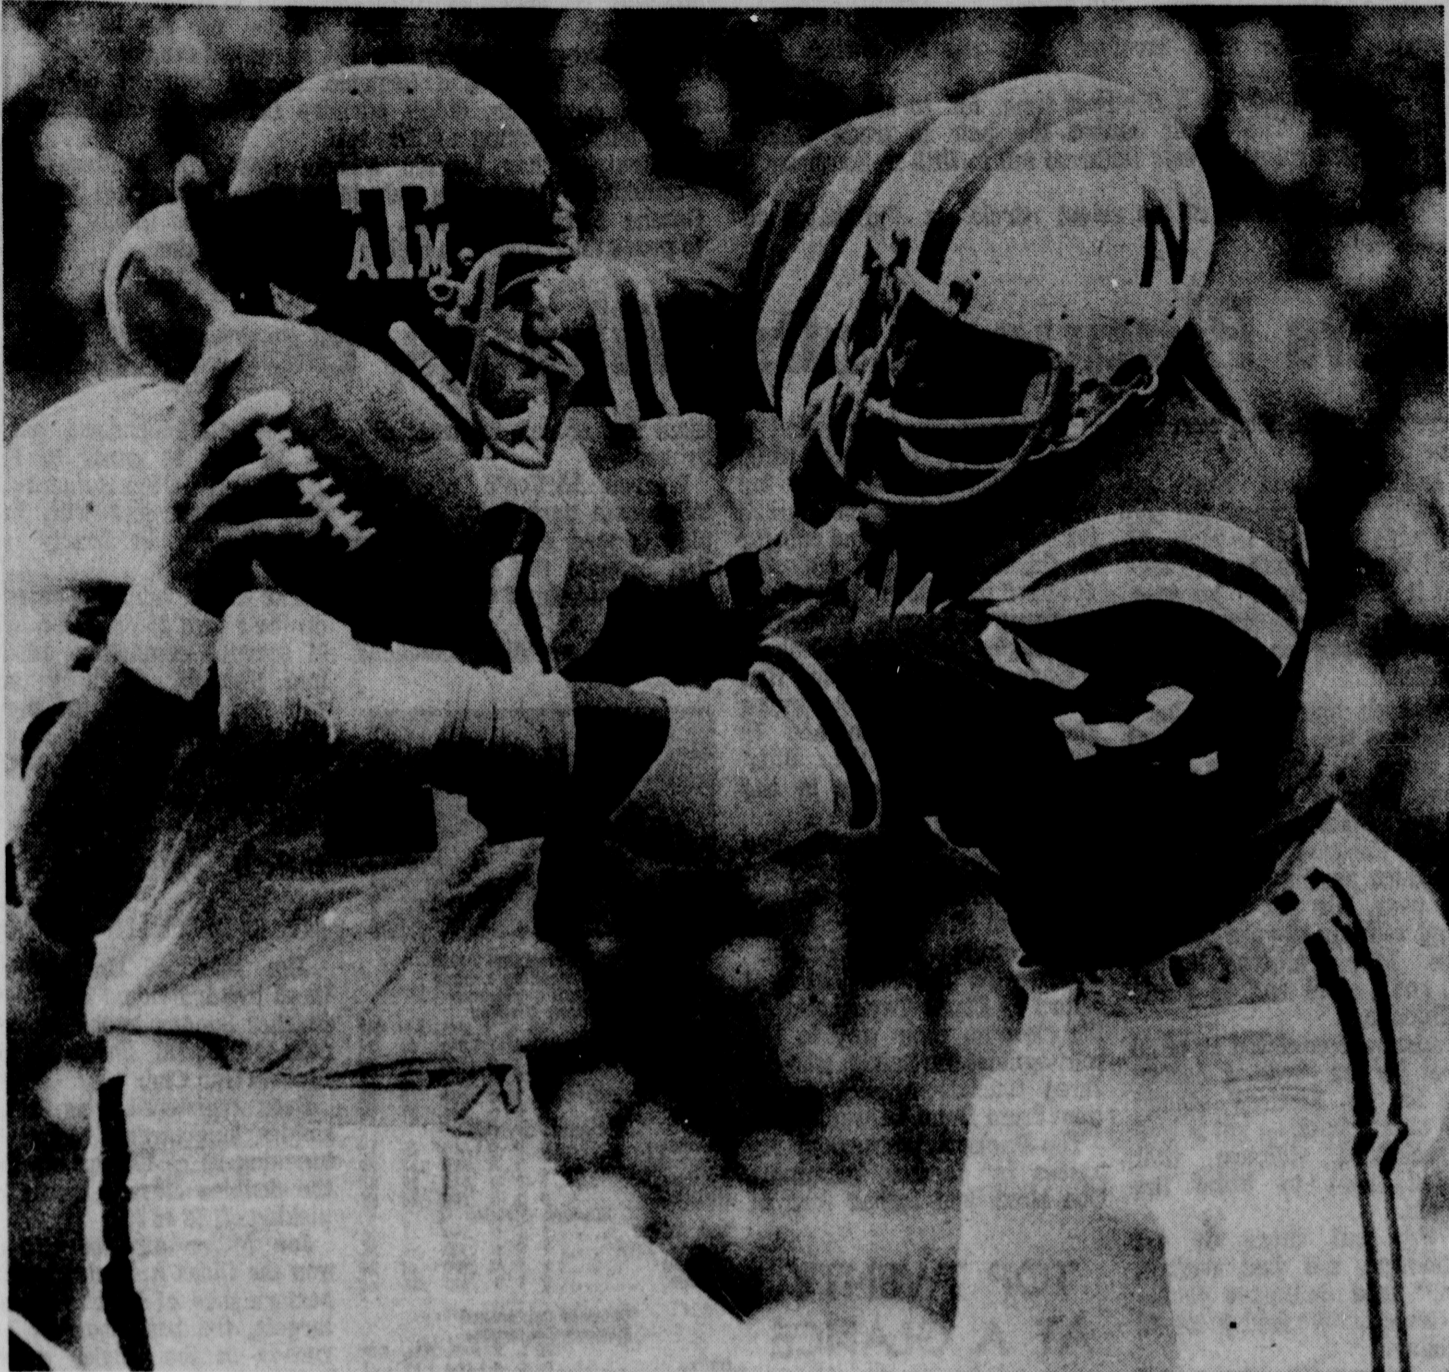

Which means that the top threats to the Huskers may come from quarterback Tom Adams and wide receiver Bobby Wicks.

"But we have a teammate of Gary Dixon's in the form of Jerry Hughes," Bernstein said. "And some think he was a better player than Dixon in junior college."

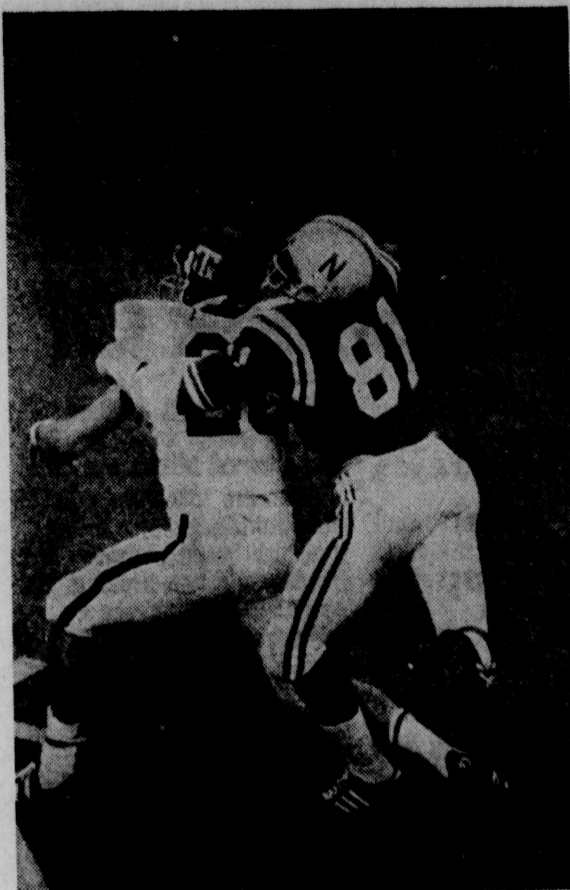

He shook his head. "But I don't know how we're going to stop Nebraska. All I can say is that we hope to come up with something by next Saturday."

Any idea what that might be? "Yeah," he grinned wryly. "Probably a lot of prayer."

TIME OUT

ABA Game At Fremont

Midland College will host an exhibition basketball game Thursday night at 8 between the American Basketball Association teams of the Denver Rockets and Miami Floridians.

With the Cincinnati Royals only scheduling one regular season game in Omaha this season, the game in Fremont Thursday night will be the only other pro basketball slated for Nebraska this season.

Alex Hannum will coach the Rockets this year after quitting the San Diego Rockets who have since moved to Houston.

One rookie who will be playing for Hannum will be former Kansas standout Dave Robisch. Robisch was the fifth-round pick of the Rockets.

The 6-10½ lefthanded Robisch will be used both at forward and center according to Rocket officials.

A total of 17 players were invited to the Denver camp after a rookie camp in June. The squad now numbers 14 with Colorado State University graduate Mike Childress who played in the Husker Classic last year among three rookies who were cut.

Unusual Place Kicker For Chadron

Chadron State College came up with an unexpected and unusual place kicker in Don White.

The Bassett sophomore never scored a point with his toe in high school because his prep coach almost always had Bassett going for the two-point conversion. White once got to kick a PAT and it was good but his team was offside and after the penalty he missed.

So far at Chadron White has kicked a school record 38-yard field goal and all the PATs.

The 5-9, 200-pounder was a member of the 1969 team at Chadron but passed up the sport last year after a disappointing freshman year. He was listed at linebacker but the team two years ago was deep at that position and he wasn't able to advance ahead of the regulars.

White almost transferred to a Texas school but he went out for spring drills this year and won a starting job at linebacker but he still wasn't assured of the place kicking job until fall.

Regular place kicker Mike Kearns was returning but was advised by his doctor this summer to give up football because of a back injury. So when fall season started White was able to earn the job as the place kicker for Chadron.

NIAC Race Still Open

Coaches in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference still see the football title race as indefinite and may go down to the last week of play.

Nebraska Wesleyan coach Harold Chaffee says he's glad the Plainsmen were able to play Dana and Midland early in the season. "Both Dana and Midland are young teams and made mistakes against us," Chaffee said.

"But later in the season the young players won't make so many mistakes and both teams will be tougher."

Doane coach Ray Best whose team beat defending champion Concordia says the rest of the conference schedule will be as tough as the Concordia game. "The conference is better balanced this year than ever and the eventual winner may lose two games," Best assessed.

"The conference champion may have to be decided by a tie-breaking system because two or more teams may tie for the title."

The San Francisco Giants maintained their slim one-game lead in the torrid National League West race Sunday, bombing the Cincinnati Reds 12-5 as Dick Dietz hit a grand slam home run and knocked in five runs.

Second-place Los Angeles kept pace with the front-runners as the hot Dodgers completed a sweep of their three-game series by stopping the Atlanta Braves 5-2 behind homers by Richie Allen and Duke Sims. The Giants and Dodgers each have three games left in the regular season which winds up this Thursday.

Dietz capped a seven-run fifth inning that wiped out a 2-0 Cincinnati lead and Willie Mays and Bobby Bonds applied the San Francisco crusher by belting two-run homers in the sixth. Dietz, out of action earlier this week when struck by a pitch, then added the game's last run with an RBI single in the ninth.

The Giants' display of slugging included 10 extra-base hits—three homers, six doubles and a triple.

Allen gave the Dodgers a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his 23rd homer and Sims, whose three-run homer helped the Dodgers beat the Braves Saturday, then smacked his fifth circuit shot of the year in the third.

Veteran Hoyt Wilhelm, a former Brave, and Jim Brewer pitched effectively the last three innings in relief of Los Angeles starter

Claude Osteen, who gave up Hank Aaron's 47th homer in the sixth.

In an American League game, Jim Palmer became Baltimore's fourth 20-game winner this year, tying a 51-year-old major league record, as the Orioles topped the Cleveland Indians 5-0. Palmer's three-hitter enabled him to join teammates Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Pat Dobson in the 20-victory circle and equal the mark set by the 1920 Chicago White Sox.

In the day's other National League games, Tom Seaver pitched a one-hitter as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1; rookie Jorge Roque drilled three singles to lead St. Louis over Montreal 7-1 and Roger Freed blasted a three-run homer and run-scoring double as Philadelphia beat Chicago 5-1.

In other American League action, Jim Lonborg pitched a four-hitter as Boston beat Washington 8-1; rookie Rusty Torres laced a two-run homer, two doubles and a single as New York topped Detroit 3-2; Vida Blue won his 24th game and Reggie Jackson, Sal Bando and Dave Duncan walloped homers to pace Oakland over Milwaukee 7-0 and Bill Melton scored from third on a two-out passed ball in the 10th as Chicago defeated California 6-5. Harmon Killebrew lashed a two-run homer to help Minnesota beat Kansas City in the first game of a doubleheader and the Royals won the second with a four-run rally in the fifth inning.

East Justified As Knights Advance

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln East more than justified its position as the No. 1 Class A high school football team in the state last weekend with a 47-0 bombing of cross-town rival Northeast.

It was the second successive lopsided victory for coach Lee Zentic's Spartans. And in each case it came after the opposition had played extremely well against other highly regarded foes.

Before East ripped Hastings, 57-7, the Tigers had toppled Lincoln High, 8-7. Northeast had played top ten ranked Fremont within a touchdown and came within two points of defending state champion Lincoln Southeast.

This week's Class A top ten contains the same clubs as the initial rating, with two switches occurring among the top five.

Coach Frank Solich's Southeast Knights make the biggest jump, moving up from fifth to the runner-up position. Southeast came from behind for the third successive weekend to edge previously second-rated Bellevue, 24-20.

The 1970 titlists needed a touchdown and conversion to get past Northeast a week earlier, 8-6, and though blitzing

North Platte, 33-13, in their opener, the Knights let the Platters on the scoreboard first in that one too.

Southeast, in its drive for a repeat crown, next faces Fremont, another team involved in a top ten switch this week.

Fremont, rated No. 3 the first time, fell to No. 4 ranked Norfolk, 21-19. The result caused the pair to trade places in this week's ratings, while Bellevue fell to fifth in Southeast's old spot.

The bottom half of the select circle is the same as a week ago.

No. 5 Creighton Prep, with only a defeat at Bellevue marring its slate, squeezed past No. 6 Omaha South, 25-20. But South held its previous position on the basis of an earlier four-point victory over No. 10 ranked Omaha North.

Omaha Burke and Beatrice, though both are 3-0 on the current campaign, didn't advance farther up the latter this week while awaiting a stiffer test.

Beatrice has Lincoln schools East and Southeast plus Fremont on its future schedule, while Burke will yet face Omaha North and South, giving both clubs plenty of time to prove their right to a higher place in the order.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Virgil Parker

Class A

- 1—Lincoln East (3-0)
- 2—Lincoln Southeast (3-0)
- 3—Norfolk (3-0)
- 4—Fremont (2-1)
- 5—Bellevue (2-1)
- 6—Creighton Prep (2-1)
- 7—Omaha South (2-1)
- 8—Omaha Burke (3-0)
- 9—Beatrice (3-0)
- 10—Omaha North (2-1)

Comment—The bottom half of the select group stays in the same order as a week ago after Creighton Prep beat Omaha South by five points. First five the same teams, but with two trades. Defending champion Lincoln Southeast jumps from fifth to second and switches spots with Bellevue after posting a 24-20 victory. Norfolk and Fremont (3-4) trade places following the former's narrow 21-19 triumph.

It was Baltimore's, Minnesota's and Cincinnati's turn Sunday.

The Colts, Vikings and Bengals, who escaped the rash of upsets in last weekend's National Football League openers, became the surprise victims this time against Cleveland, Chicago and Pittsburgh.

The Browns, intercepting five passes and limiting aerial minded Baltimore to a measly 41 yards in passing, squeezed to a 14-13 victory on Leroy Kelly's two short-run touchdowns.

For the second straight week, quarterback Kent Nix rallied the Bears from apparent defeat with touchdown strikes of 36 and 19 yards to Dick Gordon that stunned Minnesota 20-17.

And the Steelers, limiting Cincinnati's ground attack to just 28 yards, rode Terry Bradshaw's two scoring tosses to a 21-10 triumph.

Washington demolished the New York Giants 30-3, Dallas steamrolled Philadelphia 42-7, Miami belted Buffalo 29-14. Detroit dumped New England 34-7, San Francisco smacked New Orleans 38-20, Green Bay defeated Denver 34-13, Kansas City beat Houston 20-16, Oakland walloped San Diego 34-0 and Los Angeles and Atlanta played to a 20-20 tie. The New York Jets visit St. Louis in Monday night's game.

The Browns had to fight off a pair of furious Colts' rallies in the closing minutes to preserve their record of having never lost in Baltimore.

After Johnny Unitas took over for ineffective quarterback Earl Morrall, Cleveland snared two of his passes and kept him from completing any of his four others. Baltimore's lone touchdown came on Don Nottingham's 20-yard return of a blocked punt.

"I've now helped beat the Steelers and the Vikings," Nix said after the Bears' triumph, "and if we beat Green Bay I'll really be happy. All three gave up on me!" by cutting him before Chicago signed him this year.

Gordon grabbed Nix' 19-yarder in the corner of the end zone with just 1:42 to play. "I didn't know where the ball was until it got to here," he said, reenacting the eye-level catch. "I was looking for it over my shoulder."

Nix took over when Jack Concannon was knocked out of the game by an injury on a tackle. At that point the Vikings were leading 17-3 on a pair of Gary Cuzzo-to-Bobby Grim touchdown passes—and on his first pass, Nix got the Bears rolling with his 36-yard scoring strike. Mac Percival booted field goals of 44 and 45 yards for Chicago.

Bradshaw completed 18 of 30 passes for 249 yards, a career high for the Steelers' second year quarterback—but it was a rock-hard defense that enabled them to tame the Bengals.

"We're out there to get touchdowns, not just contain them," said defensive tackle Joe Greene. "We had a lot of fun today."

He repeatedly harassed Virgil Carter and dumped the Cincinnati passer several times, then rubbed it in by picking him up and patting him on the back. "Just teasing him," said Greene. "I just told him it's going to be a hard day for him. He nodded in agreement."

The defense scored Cincinnati's lone touchdown when cornerback Lamar Parrish ran 14 yards with a stolen ball. Jon Stagers returned a punt 67 yards for the Steelers' other touchdown.

Billy Kilmer overwhelmed the Giants with 309 yards in passes, including two touchdowns to Charley Taylor, one on a 71-yard play that put the Redskins ahead to stay in the first period. Jack Pardee also scored on a 20-yard pass interception return and Curt Knight kicked three field goals.

The Cowboys intercepted a club-record seven passes while Craig Morton, taking over for injured Roger Staubach, passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third. Only Al Nelson's 101-yard touchdown gallop with a missed field goal prevented the Eagles from being blanked.

Gary Yepremian booted five field goals while Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick combined to rumble through the Bills' defense for 211 yards in the Dolphins' victory.

Steve Owens scored two touchdowns, one on a 74-yard plunge, the other on a two-yard pass from Greg Landry in the Lions' romp over the Patriots.

A 58-yard blocked field goal return by Bruce Taylor started the 49ers on their way to the rout against the Saints, who got three touchdowns pass receptions from Danny Abramowicz.

The Packers intercepted six passes by former teammate Don Horn and turned four of them into scores to break the Broncos.

Warren McVea's four-yard touchdown dash with 5:21 to play capped an 80-yard drive that brought the Chiefs their come-from-behind victory over the Oilers.
